New President Takes Up Duties Of His Office

Wayne Smith Is Outstanding Young Man

A standing ovation greeted Wayne E. Smith as he was named the Outstanding Young Man of Pickaway County for 1968.

Smith was introduced to the audience of a 150 people at the annual Jaycees Distinguished Services Awards Banquet Monday night by last year's recipient of the award, Tom Elsea.

"Wayne is one of the finest men ever to be picked for this award," stated Elsea as he presented the bronze plaque to Smith.

The Outstanding Young Man was named following presentation of awards to Jim Hastings, Outstanding Young Farmer, and Donald Metzler, the Outstanding Young Educator. Also recognized at the banquet were three outstanding senior citizens, Sterley Croman, Ray Davis and George Foreman. M. E. (Mac) Noggle was awarded a certificate for his years as unofficial county historian. Noggle was not present due to ill health.

JIM Houston of the Cleveland Browns was the guest speaker following the presentation of the awards. He spoke about preparation for games, the future of his team and the role of Christ in his life.

Smith, supervisor of employee and community relations at General Electric, was nominated by E. G. Grigg, plant manager, on the basis of his contributions to the community through the Chamber of Commerce.

An active member of the chamber, Smith was chairman of the organizations public relations committee beginning in 1967. He has worked on the "Meet The Circleville Area" brochure and the annual Chamber of Commerce Week.

During 1968 he was chairman and coordinator of the Deer Creek Reservoir Dedication

3 Senior Citizens Honored At Jaycees DSA Banquet

Three outstanding men were announced as the Senior Citizens of Pickaway County for 1968 at the annual Jaycees Distinguished Services Awards Banquet Monday night.

The three men, named on the basis of their contributions to the community, were, alphabetically, Sterley Croman, Ray Davis and George Foreman.

Croman, Route 4, has been a leader in the farming and hatchery business in Pickaway County. He has also been active in the Rotary Club, Presbyterian Church and the Chamber of Commerce.

His parents brought him to Pickaway County in 1889 from Fairfield County when he was eight weeks old. In this county he attended Jackson Twp. School, taught school, married Mabel McCoy on Dec. 7, 1916 and raised his son and niece.

In 1929 he started the hatchery business with a small incubator in his basement. Since that time, he has steadily increased his business until today he hatches over 25,000 chicks a year.

As his business grew he introduced new improvements and innovations. He was one of the first in the industry to start blood testing of all breeders.

Locally a member of the Washington Grange and the Farm Bureau, he belongs to such state and national organizations as the Ohio Poultry Improvement Assn., Ohio Poultry Assn., American Poultry and Hatchery Assn., and the Poultry and Egg National Board.

At 80-years-old, he is still active in the farming and hatchery business and enjoys traveling. Croman has visited all the states of the Union and several nations of Europe.

Ray Davis, the second of the three men to be named by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff at the banquet, is an active member of the bar and of local Masonic lodges.

He was born in Pickaway County Oct. 15, 1904. After attending Circleville City Schools, he went to the University of Michigan, where he received his bachelor of arts degree in 1929. From Michigan he went to Western Reserve University, where he received his law degree. In 1930 he was admitted to the Ohio Bar Assn.

DAVIS served his profession and community in public office as prosecuting attorney for two terms between 1933-37, finished an unexpired term in 1957 and was re-elected for a two-year term of 1958.

He is a member of the Pickaway County Bar Assn., of which he was president in 1964-65. He is also past chairman of the county Republican

Ship Unequipped For Emergencies, Bucher Testifies

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The skipper of the USS Pueblo says the Navy didn't provide retaliatory help or adequate guns, communications or explosives to destroy secret equipment when North Koreans captured his intelligence ship.

Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher testified Monday at the opening of a court of inquiry into the loss of the ship last Jan. 23, the death of one crewman and imprisonment of the 82 others for 11 months.

Bucher, apparently still tense from his prison experience, was expected to testify for two or three days. The court of five admirals could recommend anything from medals to courts-martial.

But Navy lawyers told Bucher that so far he was not suspected of violating any military laws.

The Navy said Bucher will be followed on the stand by his superior, Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, former commander of naval forces at Japan, and Cmdr. Charles R. Clark, skipper of a sister intelligence ship.

When he sailed the Pueblo on its mission to scout North Korean radar and North Korean and Soviet ships in the Sea of Japan, Bucher testified, he wanted twin 20 or 40 millimeter guns.

But instead, Bucher said, he got two .50-caliber machine guns, 3,000 to 5,000 rounds of ammunition, a spare barrel and a mount for a third .50-caliber machine-gun he never received.

The weapons were much smaller and lighter than those he said he had requested.

They were installed in Japan, Bucher said, a few weeks before the Pueblo was to begin her intelligence mission off North Korea.

Bucher said he was under orders from Adm. Johnson to

THE 37TH president of the United States looks in fine fettle as he waves to one and all in Washington.

Sets Meetings With Council, Gen. Wheeler

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard Milhous Nixon, the pomp and pageantry of his inauguration day behind him, turned today to the somber tasks of guiding the nation through turmoil at home and war abroad.

The politician whose career once teetered on oblivion began his term as 37th President Monday with a pledge "to conserve my office, my energies, and all of the wisdom I can summon, to the cause of peace among nations."

Even before he plunged into the merry whirl of Monday night's inaugural balls—where Republicans celebrated their return to power after an eight-year gap—the new President had arranged for a meeting of the National Security Council today.

Nixon also planned to meet with Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and aides said he would confer soon with his Cabinet and Urban Affairs Council.

In the heady atmosphere of Inauguration Day, the former transfer of presidential power from Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson to Republican Nixon was carried out in peace and harmony.

The day was marred, however, by brief and scattered but sometimes bloody confrontations between police and a small band of antiwar protestors who tried but failed to seriously disrupt the inauguration events.

It was at 12:16 p.m. Monday that the 56-year-old son of a California grocer stood in the shadow of the towering Capitol dome and, with his right hand upraised and his left hand on two family Bibles held by his wife Pat, repeated in a firm and forceful voice the 35-word oath administered by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Spiro T. Agnew, former Maryland governor and son of a Greek immigrant, had been sworn in moments earlier as vice president.

Looking on were President Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic vice president whom Nixon narrowly defeated in November's general election.

Then, after cannons roared out a 21-gun salute and the Marine Band played "Hail to the Chief," Nixon delivered his 17-minute inaugural address in solemn and restrained tones.

Cuba Sending Plane Hijackers To Labor Camps

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Star says the Cuban government is sending aircraft hijackers to prison for five years at hard labor if they are not political refugees.

Quoting a high source in international aviation, the Star said Cuban authorities cooperate with the Swiss Embassy, which handles U.S. affairs in Havana, in checking the credentials and stories given by hijackers.

As a result, the Star said, more than half of the hijackers of American aircraft have been sentenced to the maximum penalty provided in Cuba for illegal entry into the country.

When Cubans or Americans seeking to avoid the draft hijack an airliner, the Star added, they have been toasted and honored in Havana.

Hanoi Seen More Favorable To Peace Than Viet Cong

PARIS (AP) — Their first diplomatic encounter with the North Vietnamese has left some Saigon officials with the impression that Hanoi is more eager to make peace than its Viet Cong allies.

This assessment emerged today from authoritative accounts of last Saturday's first meeting of representatives from Saigon, the United States, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The meeting produced a surprisingly quick agreement on procedures for substantive peace negotiations. In sharp contrast with their earlier negotiating stances, Col. Ha Van Lau and his Hanoi contingent demonstrated a business-like flexibility on the organizational questions.

U.S. delegation spokesman William Jordan remarked afterward there was more give and take at the session than at any he had attended here. Jordan was a regular participant at most of the 28 U.S.-North Viet namese meetings which led to the agreement last Oct. 31 to stop the bombing of North Vietnam and enlarge the peace talks.

The U.S. delegation's new leader, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrived from the United States Monday and said he would soon propose a date for the talks to continue. He pledged: "We will do all in our power to make them a success."

South Vietnamese officials in Saigon said they hoped the talks would resume Friday. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, the supervisory chief of the Saigon delegation, is due back in Paris Thursday. Top U.S. and South Vietnamese officials in Saigon were meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu and Ky today to discuss the Paris talks.

Officials who attended Saturday's meeting stressed the different attitudes of Lau and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh of the NLF.

The South Vietnamese deputy delegation chief, Nguyen Xuan Phong, opened the session by introducing a set of procedural proposals. U.S. Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance spoke briefly, calling for speedy adoption of rules. Then Mrs. Binh took the floor, to attack "U.S. imperialism" and the "puppet clique in Saigon."

Nixon, Lombardo Still Holding On

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Nixon discovered Guy Lombardo was playing at one of the inaugural balls he visited, Nixon recalled that he had danced to the band leader's music the night World War II ended.

"He's lasted this long. I just hope we're dancing to his music after the next war," said Nixon, alluding to the Vietnam conflict.

Teddy Boosters Get Together

MIAMI (AP) — A group boasting Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for president in 1972 will kick off its Florida effort tonight close to the Key Biscayne home of President Nixon.

Lawrence H. Plummer, chairman of the Kennedy group, said it, deliberately chose to meet at a restaurant favored by Nixon.

"We picked this site because it is one of the new President's favorite dining places," Plummer said. "We selected this date because it is the first day after President Nixon's inauguration."

pointed out there is a bill pending before the State Legislature which will make the use of voting machines mandatory in Ohio.

Although there is a possibility the bill may not pass this session, there is little doubt on the part of state election officials that it will be reintroduced until it does pass.

THE machines can be acquired on a lease purchase agreement with very little increase to the annual budget of the board of elections. A savings on salaries to poll workers will provide enough funds to pay for most of the annual cost of the machines.

Currently there are 54 precincts in the county, with eight workers in each precinct. They are paid $18 a day each. With voting machines, only four workers will be needed. Their salary, set by state statute, will be $24 a day.

In addition, election officials plan to cut the number of

Man Booked For Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The second of two brothers sought in the campus slaying of two Black Panthers was booked on suspicion of murder today after surrendering himself to police at a San Diego airport.

Larry Joseph Stiner, 21, suffering from a gunshot wound which Detective Charles Clinton of the West Los Angeles police station said "looks three days old," gave himself up at Lindbergh Field.

His brother, George Phillip Stiner, 22, accompanied by an attorney, surrendered himself Monday at the West Los Angeles station.

The Stiner brothers had been the target of an all-points bulletin issued after the militant Black Panther group identified them as being involved in last Friday's shooting at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Slain were John Jerome Huggins, 23, and Alperntice "Bunchy" Carter, 26. The Stiner brothers are UCLA students and members of a rival Negro organization, US.

Gov. Rhodes' '70s Plan Draws Fire

GLOSTER, Ohio (AP)—Additional attacks on the "solutions for the 70s" program of Gov. James A. Rhodes were expected today as the Ohio Legislature's workshop entered its second day.

The first blast came Monday night when an Ohio University professor called it "An industrial Vietnam" minus a plan.

It may have set the tempo for the seminar. Educators are irked at the governor's proposal because they feel that concentration on vocational education would be at the expense of general education.

"I don't believe there is a Rhodes plan," Dr. Meno Lovenstein, professor of economics at Ohio University, told newsmen Monday night.

"I believe there is a Rhodes generalization. You commit yourself without knowing where you are going." The seminar is being held at nearby Burr Oak State Park.

Dr. Lovenstein, keynote speaker at the opening session, put his remarks on the record prior to his talk.

Under guidelines of the workshop, formal sessions are off the record, but speakers can talk for publication if they desire.

Solons Abandon Landfill Site; Buy Voting Machines

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday voted to advertise for the purchase of 60 voting machines on a lease-purchase basis and abandoned the proposed Jackson Twp. sanitary landfill site.

The action on the voting machines came at the request of the Board of Elections. Election officials and commissioners hope to complete the voting machine transaction in time to have the machines for the May Primary Election.

Inaugural Speech Reaction Mixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon's presidential inaugural summons to peace drew warm praise from Capitol Hill to the Kremlin, but left some Americans-in-the-street baffled and at least one Negro leader downright disappointed.

"The speech reflected no sense of urgency and no sensitivity to the basic problems of hunger, poverty and race in this nation," said the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

In a congratulatory message to Nixon, leaders of the Soviet Union said the two world powers must strive to improve relations.

"Through joint efforts with other states the Soviet Union and the United States must do all that is needed to solve ripe international problems," said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

The message followed a rare Kremlin news conference at which the Soviet Union repeated its willingness to start talks soon on curbing the nuclear arms race.

From the Vatican, Pope Paul VI messaged Nixon that "we ask God to protect and guide you, to grant success to your efforts for unity and peace."

Even Hanoi's usually strident voice of criticism was muted as Nixon assumed the presidency from Lyndon Johnson.

"Let the failure of Johnson be a lesson to others," said Radio Hanoi broadcast monitored in Hong Kong. It did not mention Nixon by name.

In London, the influential Times urged the British government to try to maintain with Nixon the "sensible, familiar, low-keyed relationship it had with President Johnson."

American newspapers, even those who opposed his election, had kind if cautious words for Nixon and plenty of friendly advice.

The New York Times, which also backed Humphrey, said Nixon faces a "giant task" in trying to "close the gap between rich and poor, between black and white."

The Richmond, Va., News Leader urged Nixon to adopt "victory" as his watchword.

"Americans want to win again," it said.

Across the country, reaction from the man in the street was mixed, with some calling the speech "sincere, inspiring, impressive," and others saying they found it "confusing, vague, double talk."

"It impressed me as being a sincere and an inspiring approach to our problems," said Dr. D. M. Wetter, principal of a Des Moines, Iowa, high school.

"It sounds like double talk, which is typical," said a salesgirl in a New York book store.

Senate Demos Promise Help To Nixon -- In Some Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are promising President Nixon time and elbow room in the search for peace in Vietnam, but they indicate any honeymoon on domestic issues may be short.

Democrats and Republicans enthusiastically approved Nixon's selection of the search for peace as the principal theme of his Monday inaugural address.

J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was favorably impressed by Nixon's assertion that "after a period of confrontation, we are entering a period of negotiation."

"It was a very superior speech," the Arkansas Democrat said. "I particularly liked his emphasis on his determination to pursue a policy of peace. Congress is certainly going to give him a reasonable time to pursue that objective."

However, Washington Democratic Sen. Henry Jackson said,

No Financing Available For Ross Dorms

Efforts to secure financing for the first apartment building adjoining the OU-Chillicothe campus have been unsuccessful.

The prime interest rate increase earlier this month has apparently eliminated financing.

Officials had hoped the apartments would be ready by the fall quarter. Dr. William Boram, OU-C director and Ralph D. Smith, dean of OU's off-campus academic programs said they would "begin immediately to investigate other possibilities" for providing student housing as soon as possible.

Present and prospective students indicated an interest in the project and OUC Development Fund, local businesses, organizations and individuals pledged $13,200 in rent subsidies as documented interest for the project, prior to the effort to secure financing.

Boram and Smith stated the "pledges for rent subsidies and many other expressions of support indicated the backing of a large segment of the community for a venture which was felt would greatly assist the growth of higher education."

Funds of donors will be returned through the development fund treasurer.

Firemen Douse Burning Bed

A six-year-old child set fire to a mattress while playing with matches at 2 p.m. Monday.

The blaze occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rutter, 201 E. Mill St. Quick action by the Circleville Fire Department confined the fire to the mattress.

Damage was estimated at $50. The house was not damaged, firemen said.

"I think there will be a very limited honeymoon on some domestic issues which change from day to day. But there is general agreement that he needs time and latitude to deal with the biggest problem of all — peace."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said Nixon "pressed all of the right buttons, struck all of the right themes and I thought he did it well."

But "I think Democrats will await the specifics before taking positions on domestic issues," Muskie said. "Even then opposition should be based on the merits of his proposals and not on partisanship."

Republicans as expected all were complimentary about a relatively low key and somber address most of them felt reflected the realities of the times.

Ship . . .

"employ (the guns) as a last resort only in cases where threat to survival is obvious. . . and not to practice the use of those guns or uncover them in the presence of foreign ships."

Bucher said this was to keep the intelligence ship from appearing aggressive.

He said the guns were "temperamental, difficult to keep adjusted and hard to prepare for firing."

Bucher said he picked what he thought were the best places to mount the weapons—one fore and one aft—but they still left portions of the side of the vessel uncovered.

Casping and unclasping his hands at the witness table Bucher said he also asked for explosives to destroy secret equipment and codes in the event of capture.

The request was "deferred," Bucher said, because his commander told him "in order for the destruct system to be effective. . . it must be integral to (secret) equipment."

"Since the equipment had already been installed they said it was not possible to put in the explosives without a great deal of expense and time."

"I had as destruct equipment fire axes and sledge hammers capable of being swung by a standard size sailor to bash in the equipment." He said it would have taken 2 1/2 hours to scuttle the ship."

Ohio Pen Has Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three newsmen who made an unannounced call at the Ohio Penitentiary were allowed an almost unrestricted tour of the prison and noted several changes since last summer's riots.

These include the breakup of a once troublesome group known as the "coal company," installation of new guard positions in and out of cell blocks, removal of trees which might hinder the view of guards, new electrically controlled gates to allow the hospital to be sealed off in event of trouble, and a reduction in prescriptions for tranquilizer drugs.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer detailed the tour today in a story by Richard Zimmerman and Robert Burdock. O. F. Knippenburg of the Dayton Daily News also made the tour.

Harold J. Cardwell, who took over as warden after riots last August ended with five prisoners killed, asked only that the newsmen not interview 57 inmates under indictment on charges stemming from the disturbances.

They found that the "coal company," a group made up mostly of Negro prisoners whose job was shoveling coal, has been replaced by an automatic stoker.

Master Keys Under Attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown warned in a consumer crimes and frauds bulletin mailed today to Ohio police and prosecutors that the illegal sale or use of master key sets also will open the door to prison and a stiff fine.

Brown said an increase in the manufacture and public sale of such keys is a growing concern to law enforcement agencies.

"Many of these keys are falling into the hands of persons who use them in auto thefts or to loot the contents of cars," Brown said. He warned that Ohio law provides penalties from $500 fine and six months in jail, to 120 years imprisonment for persons knowingly selling or obtaining master key sets for criminal purposes.

There also are federal penalties under U. S. Post Office regulations for misuse of such keys.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, top GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said that Nixon "reflected the thinking of all of us."

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, said it was "the kind of a speech the country needed."

"I agree with him that government can't do everything," Goldwater said. "I'm glad he indicated that we will negotiate from strength."

Hap thinks he's got the problem licked. . . Eileen Easterday, The Herald's Williamsport correspondent, has submitted the following in support of AA:

"I want to urge you to continue the AA. The more people you can induce — entice — entreat etc. and etc. to quit smoking the better."

"One thing that has not been mentioned is how much keener the smell (for better or for worse) and how alive the taste buds become (several hefty pounds later, I know)."

I know where of I speak, since Feb. 27, I will reach the 5-year plateau. . . I might point out the 6-month level-off was murder for me. . . I was doing fine and at that point all of a sudden the craving hit with tremendous force — I faltered — weakened — succumbed — and after a few puffs was sicker than a dog (as the old saying goes). Have never been tempted since.

"A warning. . . There is no one as obnoxious and overbearing as a reformed smoker for the first year or so. . . At least until they notice they have few friends coming around."

"The best thing to do is throw out the bathroom scales because nine cases out of ten the pounds will add up. But even with the extra poundage (and mine is plentiful) I'll carry it around and be ever so thankful I conquered the nasty habit. . ."

is a member of the Region Five Citizens Committee-Governor's Council for Vocational Rehabilitation. Smith has also conducted the General Electric fund drive for the Pickaway County Community Fund for the past three years and has served on the special collections group of the Cancer Fund.

HE is past president of the Capital Gains Investment Club and a member of the Roundtown Players. He has also engaged in public speaking appearances geared to youth, including area high schools and 4-H Future Leaders Clubs.

"Wayne believes that we all have an obligation to serve the community," stated his wife Lois regarding her husband.

But the young supervisor also finds time for family activities. Taking care of two daughters is enough to keep any man busy, stated his wife. Smith has two daughters, Jana, 7, and Angela 3. "And if the kids aren't enough, there is always Brandy," Mrs. Smith continued. Brandy is a 160-pound pet Saint Bernard.

"Reading is about his favorite activity," continued his wife. "He is always reading newspapers and trade magazines," she stated adding that he tries to keep up on everything.

And "keeping up" has paid off for Smith. At age 28, he is the youngest man ever to attain a department head level position at the local GE Plant.

Smith came to work for General Electric in 1965. Before that the Topeka, Kan. native had attended the University of Kansas where he graduated with honors. He then attended Indiana University on a teaching assistantship and was awarded a master of arts degree in 1967.

FOLLOWING schooling he joined the Kendall Company in Kentucky as a senior quality analyst. His record at Kendall was so outstanding that he was invited to join General Electric, according to E. G. Grigg.

His professional activities include responsibility for personnel and relations functions at the local plant, hiring, communications and employee publications, wage administration, employee benefits, plant safety and community relations. He also manages an employee store, plant cafeteria and medical clinic.

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. land, river and air forces with rockets, mortars and grenades Monday and today, coinciding with the inauguration of President Nixon.

At least six American servicemen were killed and 35 Americans were wounded, including a civilian.

A high-ranking South Vietnamese police official said captured Communist orders directed a new wave of terrorism at U.S. troops in an attempt to increase antiwar sentiment among the American public.

Several other attacks apparently were thwarted by American forces who uncovered two enemy munitions caches and broke up a convoy of enemy sampans moving troops south of Saigon.

In the past 24 hours, military spokesmen said, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Navy patrol boats and landing craft and cargo ships, American officers' quarters, a U.S. military advisers' compound, a small observation plane flying over the demilitarized zone and U.S. troops based within 11 miles of Saigon.

Inside Saigon, terrorists threw hand grenades at two U.S. billets a mile apart and wounded eight Americans. The terrorists escaped. Increased numbers of uniformed and plainclothes South Vietnamese police were roaming the capital because of the directives calling for a new wave of terrorism against Americans.

Enemy rockets, mortars, machine guns, hand grenades and mines sank a 31-foot Navy patrol boat and badly damaged another, ripped through the stern of the 384-foot LST Tom Green County, slightly damaged the American cargo ship Muskingum, tore a tire off a small observation plane, hit a U.S. helicopter and forced it down, and sprayed shrapnel over two helicopters parked on the ground.

The boldest attack was at the usually serene seaside resort city of Vung Tau, 34 miles southeast of Saigon.

Tax Proposals Would Boost Local Shares

Sen. Maloney Urges Changes In Ohio Outlays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Hamilton is preparing legislation to tie the amount of sales tax revenue distributed among local governments to annual increases in the amount collected.

Maloney, chairman of an interim committee on county budget commissions, wants to remove the $24 million ceiling on the sales tax revenue that goes into the local government fund.

"The ceiling keeps local governments from participating in the economic growth of the state," Maloney explained in an interview.

The legislature set the $24 million ceiling in 1957. The amount hasn't been raised since then, although state sales tax revenue increased from $212 million in fiscal 1958 to $481 million in fiscal 1968.

The local government fund in fiscal 1968 was about $71 million.

In addition to sales tax revenue, it contained about $47 million from state collected intangible personal property taxes. The fund is divided among counties, municipalities and townships.

Since 1957 an increasing percentage of the local government fund has come from the intangible tax which has no ceiling.

Maloney is drafting legislation to make the $24 million "a minimum annual state contribution." It would provide that future state contributions also would include a percentage of annual increases in state sales tax revenue figured from the base year of 1968.

Maloney said he would probably propose that the percentage of annual increases be set at 5 per cent.

Since it is estimated that the state sales tax revenue in fiscal 1969 will range from $575 to $600 million, the sales tax revenue going into the local government fund would increase an estimated $4.7 to $5.6 million.

PRAGUE (AP) — A second attempt at suicide by fire presented Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders today with their gravest crisis since the Soviet invasion five months ago. An attempt at self-immolation also was reported in Budapest, the Hungarian capital.

A brewery worker in Pizen, Josef Hlavaty, 25, poured inflammable liquid over himself Monday night in Duka Square and set himself aflame. Official reports said his motive had not been determined. But students in Prague assumed he was emulating Jan Palach, a 21-year-old student who set himself afire last Thursday in protest against the reversal of the government reform movement and died Sunday.

One radio newscast said Hlavaty might survive if complications did not set in.

Students worked in the early morning hours in Prague's Wenceslas Square, painting signs reading "Josef Hlavaty, Human Torch No. 2."

President Ludvik Svoboda, renewing his pleas for an end to immolations and acceptance of what the Communist leadership feels it must do, went on television to give a veiled warning that the Soviet occupation force might intervene.

"For a great fire," he said, "a single spark is enough, and it may cost thousands of lives. I urgently beg you not to underestimate this danger."

Svoboda said Palach and Hlavaty had committed "terrible acts."

PRAGUE (AP) — A second attempt at suicide by fire presented Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders today with their gravest crisis since the Soviet invasion five months ago. An attempt at self-immolation also was reported in Budapest, the Hungarian capital.

A brewery worker in Pizen, Josef Hlavaty, 25, poured inflammable liquid over himself Monday night in Duka Square and set himself aflame. Official reports said his motive had not been determined. But students in Prague assumed he was emulating Jan Palach, a 21-year-old student who set himself afire last Thursday in protest against the reversal of the government reform movement and died Sunday.

Viet Reds Launch Series Of Rocket, Mortar Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. land, river and air forces with rockets, mortars and grenades Monday and today, coinciding with the inauguration of President Nixon.

At least six American servicemen were killed and 35 Americans were wounded, including a civilian.

A high-ranking South Vietnamese police official said captured Communist orders directed a new wave of terrorism at U.S. troops in an attempt to increase antiwar sentiment among the American public.

Several other attacks apparently were thwarted by American forces who uncovered two enemy munitions caches and broke up a convoy of enemy sampans moving troops south of Saigon.

In the past 24 hours, military spokesmen said, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Navy patrol boats and landing craft and cargo ships, American officers' quarters, a U.S. military advisers' compound, a small observation plane flying over the demilitarized zone and U.S. troops based within 11 miles of Saigon.

Inside Saigon, terrorists threw hand grenades at two U.S. billets a mile apart and wounded eight Americans. The terrorists escaped. Increased numbers of

Tax Proposals Would Boost Local Shares

Sen. Maloney Urges Changes In Ohio Outlays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Hamilton is preparing legislation to tie the amount of sales tax revenue distributed among local governments to annual increases in the amount collected.

Maloney, chairman of an interim committee on county budget commissions, wants to remove the $24 million ceiling on the sales tax revenue that goes into the local government fund.

"The ceiling keeps local governments from participating in the economic growth of the state," Maloney explained in an interview.

The legislature set the $24 million ceiling in 1957. The amount hasn't been raised since then, although state sales tax revenue increased from $212 million in fiscal 1958 to $481 million in fiscal 1968.

The local government fund in fiscal 1968 was about $71 million.

In addition to sales tax revenue, it contained about $47 million from state collected intangible personal property taxes. The fund is divided among counties, municipalities and townships.

Since 1957 an increasing percentage of the local government fund has come from the intangible tax which has no ceiling.

Maloney is drafting legislation to make the $24 million "a minimum annual state contribution." It would provide that future state contributions also would include a percentage of annual increases in state sales tax revenue figured from the base year of 1968.

Maloney said he would probably propose that the percentage of annual increases be set at 5 per cent.

Since it is estimated that the state sales tax revenue in fiscal 1969 will range from $575 to $600 million, the sales tax revenue going into the local government fund would increase an estimated $4.7 to $5.6 million.

Inside Saigon, terrorists threw hand grenades at two U.S. billets a mile apart and wounded eight Americans. The terrorists escaped. Increased numbers of uniformed and plainclothes South Vietnamese police were roaming the capital because of the directives calling for a new wave of terrorism against Americans.

Enemy rockets, mortars, machine guns, hand grenades and mines sank a 31-foot Navy patrol boat and badly damaged another, ripped through the stern of the 384-foot LST Tom Green County, slightly damaged the American cargo ship Muskingum, tore a tire off a small observation plane, hit a U.S. helicopter and forced it down, and sprayed shrapnel over two helicopters parked on the ground.

The boldest attack was at the usually serene seaside resort city of Vung Tau, 34 miles southeast of Saigon.

Opponents Of Hickel's Bid For Post Continue Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter J. Hickel's controversial statements on conservation apparently have resulted in his being the only one of President Nixon's cabinet appointments not to receive the unanimous approval of the Senate.

In announcing his opposition to Hickel's appointment, Democratic Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said:

"I am voting against the confirmation of Gov. Hickel as secretary of the interior primarily because I believe he is not qualified by understanding, experience and outlook to become the nation's chief conservationist."

The other 11 cabinet appointments were confirmed without opposition Monday, a few hours after the Senate Interior Committee voted 14 to 3 to approve the man Nixon wants as secretary of the interior.

In spite of the opposition by McGovern and a handful of other senators, there was never any serious doubt that the Alaska governor would be confirmed.

Consideration of Hickel's nomination had been put off until today at the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic whip. The others were approved in a 20-minute session less than three hours after the nation's 37th President took the oath of office at noon.

The White House said there was no time set for swearing in the new Cabinet, and there were indications Nixon wanted to wait until Hickel was confirmed.

Hickel was the only nominee seriously challenged, and most objections centered around his views on conservation. A statement that he was opposed to conservation for its own sake caused much of the discussion because the interior secretary is the custodian of the nation's public lands.

The new President also formally submitted the name of Charles W. Yost, the career diplomat he selected to be ambassador to the United Nations, but action was deferred until today to permit a formal hearing by the Foreign Relations Committee. No opposition was expected.

Man Injured In Accident

Tom Gilliland, 85, 145 Pinckney St., was injured slightly Monday in a two vehicle collision at Watt St. and the Lancaster Pike.

Gilliland pulled into a truck operated by John L. Newton, 23, Williamsport, according to the report of the accident by the Circleville Police Department.

Gilliland's car sustained heavy damage. The truck was driven from the scene.

Explosion Rips Reading Plant

CINCINNATI (AP)—At least three persons were injured, one believed critically, in an explosion early today at the Carlisle Chemical Co. in suburban Reading.

The Reading Fire Department called for help from the fire department at the nearby General Electric plant.

First reports were that the blast may have been caused by a "sodium reaction" at the plant.

Senate Demos Promise Help To Nixon -- In Some Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are promising President Nixon time and elbow room in the search for peace in Vietnam, but they indicate any honeymoon on domestic issues may be short.

Democrats and Republicans enthusiastically approved Nixon's selection of the search for peace as the principal theme of his Monday inaugural address.

J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was favorably impressed by Nixon's assertion that "after a period of confrontation, we are entering a period of negotiation."

"It was a very superior speech," the Arkansas Democrat said. "I particularly liked his emphasis on his determination to pursue a policy of peace. Congress is certainly going to give him a reasonable time to pursue that objective."

However, Washington Democratic Sen. Henry Jackson said,

No Financing Available For Ross Dorms

Efforts to secure financing for the first apartment building adjoining the OU—Chillicothe campus have been unsuccessful.

The prime interest rate increase earlier this month has apparently eliminated financing.

Officials had hoped the apartments would be ready by the fall quarter. Dr. William Boram, OU-C director and Ralph D. Smith, dean of OU's off-campus academic programs said they would "begin immediately to investigate other possibilities" for providing student housing as soon as possible.

Present and prospective students indicated an interest in the project and OU-C Development Fund, local businesses, organizations and individuals pledged $13,200 in rent subsidies as documented interest for the project, prior to the effort to secure financing.

Boram and Smith stated the "pledges for rent subsidies and many other expressions of support indicated the backing of a large segment of the community for a venture which was felt would greatly assist the growth of higher education."

Funds of donors will be returned through the development fund treasurer.

Firemen Douse Burning Bed

The blaze occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rutter, 201 E. Mill St. Quick action by the Circleville Fire Department confined the fire to the mattress.

Damage was estimated at $50. The house was not damaged, firemen said.

"I think there will be a very limited honeymoon on some domestic issues which change from day to day. But there is general agreement that he needs time and latitude to deal with the biggest problem of all—peace."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said Nixon "pressed all of the right buttons, struck all of the right themes and I thought he did it well."

But "I think Democrats will await the specifics before taking positions on domestic issues," Muskie said. "Even then opposition should be based on the merits of his proposals and not on partisanship."

Republicans as expected all were complimentary about a relatively low key and somber address most of them felt reflected the realities of the times.

"employ (the guns) as a last resort only in cases where threat to survival is obvious. . . and not to practice the use of those guns or uncover them in the presence of foreign ships."

Bucher said this was to keep the intelligence ship from appearing aggressive.

He said the guns were "temperamental, difficult to keep adjusted and hard to prepare for firing."

Bucher said he picked what he thought were the best places to mount the weapons—one fore and one aft—but they still left portions of the side of the vessel uncovered.

Clausing and unclasping his hands at the witness table Bucher said he also asked for explosives to destroy secret equipment and codes in the event of capture.

The request was "deferred," Bucher said, because his commander told him "in order for the destruct system to be effective. . . it must be integral to (secret) equipment."

"Since the equipment had already been installed he said it was not possible to put in the explosives without a great deal of expense and time."

"I had as destruct equipment fire axes and sledge hammers capable of being swung by a standard size sailor to bash in the equipment," He said it would have taken 2 1/2 hours to scuttle the ship."

Ohio Pen Has Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three newsmen who made an unannounced call at the Ohio Penitentiary were allowed an almost unrestricted tour of the prison and noted several changes since last summer's riots.

These include the breakup of a once troublesome group known as the "coal company," installation of new guard positions in and out of cell blocks, removal of trees which might hinder the view of guards, new electrically controlled gates to allow the hospital to be sealed off in event of trouble, and a reduction in prescriptions for tranquilizer drugs.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer detailed the tour today in a story by Richard Zimmerman and Robert Burdick. O. F. Knippenburg of the Dayton Daily News also made the tour.

Harold J. Cardwell, who took over as warden after riots last August ended with five prisoners killed, asked only that the newsmen not interview 57 inmates under indictment on charges stemming from the disturbances.

They found that the "coal company," a group made up mostly of Negro prisoners whose job was shoveling coal, has been replaced by an automatic stoker.

Master Keys Under Attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown warned in a consumer crimes and frauds bulletin mailed today to Ohio police and prosecutors that the illegal sale or use of master key sets also will open the door to prison and a stiff fine.

Brown said an increase in the manufacture and public sale of such keys is a growing concern to law enforcement agencies.

"Many of these keys are falling into the hands of persons who use them in auto thefts or to loot the contents of cars," Brown said. He warned that Ohio law provides penalties from $500 fine and six months in jail, to 120 years imprisonment for persons knowingly selling or obtaining master key sets for criminal purposes.

There also are federal penalties under U. S. Post Office regulations for misuse of such keys.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, top GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said that Nixon "reflected the thinking of all of us."

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, said it was "the kind of a speech the country needed."

"I agree with him that government can't do everything," Goldwater said. "I'm glad he indicated that we will negotiate from strength."

Have never been tempted since."

"A warning. . . . There is no one as obnoxious and overbearing as a reformed smoker for the first year or so. . . . At least until they notice they have few friends coming around."

"The best thing to do is throw out the bathroom scales because nine cases out of ten the pounds will add up. But even with the extra poundage (and mine is plentiful) I'll carry it around and be ever so thankful I conquered the nasty habit. . . ."

"Following schooling he joined the Kendall Company in Kentucky as a senior quality analyst. His record at Kendall was so outstanding that he was invited to join General Electric, according to E. G. Grigg."

His professional activities include responsibility for personnel and relations functions at the local plant, hiring, communications and employee publications, wage administration, employee benefits, plant safety and community relations. He also manages an employee store, plant cafeteria and medical clinic.

"Reading is about his favorite activity," continued his wife. "He is always reading newspapers and trade magazines," she stated adding that he tries to keep up on everything.

And "keeping up" has paid off for Smith. At age 28, he is the youngest man ever to attain a department head level position at the local GE Plant.

Smith came to work for General Electric in 1965. Before that the Topeka, Kan. native had attended the University of Kansas where he graduated with honors. He then attended Indiana University on a teaching assistantship and was awarded a master of arts degree in 1967.

FOLLOWING schooling he joined the Kendall Company in Kentucky as a senior quality analyst. His record at Kendall was so outstanding that he was invited to join General Electric, according to E. G. Grigg."

His professional activities include responsibility for personnel and relations functions at the local plant, hiring, communications and employee publications, wage administration, employee benefits, plant safety and community relations. He also manages an employee store, plant cafeteria and medical clinic.

Czech Crisis Grows Worse

2nd Attempted Immolation Cited

PRAGUE (AP) — A second attempt at suicide by fire presented Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders today with their gravest crisis since the Soviet invasion five months ago. An attempt at self-immolation also was reported in Budapest, the Hungarian capital.

A brewery worker in Plzen, Josef Hlavaty, 25, poured inflammable liquid over himself Monday night in Duka Square and set himself aflame. Official reports said his motive had not been determined. But students in Prague assumed he was emulating Jan Palach, a 21-year-old student who set himself afire last Thursday in protest against the reversal of the government reform movement and died Sunday.

One radio newscast said Hlavaty might survive if complications did not set in.

Students worked in the early morning hours in Prague's Wenceslas Square, painting signs reading "Josef Hlavaty, Human Torch No. 2."

President Ludvik Svoboda, renewing his pleas for an end to immolations and acceptance of what the Communist leadership feels it must do, went on television to give a veiled warning that the Soviet occupation force might intervene.

"For a great fire," he said, "a single spark is enough, and it may cost thousands of lives. I urgently beg you not to underestimate this danger."

Svoboda said Palach and Hlavaty had committed "terrible acts."

Viet Reds Launch Series Of Rocket, Mortar Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. land, river and air forces with rockets, mortars and grenades Monday and today, coinciding with the inauguration of President Nixon.

At least six American servicemen were killed and 35 Americans were wounded, including a civilian.

A high-ranking South Vietnamese police official said captured Communist orders directed a new wave of terrorism at U.S. troops in an attempt to increase antiwar sentiment among the American public.

Several other attacks apparently were thwarted by American forces who uncovered two enemy munitions caches and broke up a convoy of enemy sampans moving troops south of Saigon.

In the past 24 hours, military spokesmen said, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Navy patrol boats and landing craft and cargo ships, American officers' quarters, a U.S. military advisers' compound, a small observation plane flying over the demilitarized zone and U.S. troops based within 11 miles of Saigon.

Inside Saigon, terrorists threw hand grenades at two U.S. billets a mile apart and wounded eight Americans. The terrorists escaped. Increased numbers of uniformed and plainclothes South Vietnamese police were roaming the capital because of the directives calling for a new wave of terrorism against Americans.

Enemy rockets, mortars, machine guns, hand grenades and mines sank a 31-foot Navy patrol boat and badly damaged another, ripped through the stern of the 384-foot LST Tom Green County, slightly damaged the American cargo ship Muskingum, tore a tire off a small observation plane, hit a U.S. helicopter and forced it down, and sprayed shrapnel over two helicopters parked on the ground.

The boldest attack was at the usually serene seaside resort city of Vung Tau, 34 miles southeast of Saigon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter J. Hickel's controversial statements on conservation apparently have resulted in his being the only one of President Nixon's cabinet appointments not to receive the unanimous approval of the Senate.

In announcing his opposition to Hickel's appointment, Democratic Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said:

"I am voting against the confirmation of Gov. Hickel as secretary of the interior primarily because I believe he is not qualified by understanding, experience and outlook to become the nation's chief conservationist."

The other 11 cabinet appointments were confirmed without opposition Monday, a few hours after the Senate Interior Committee voted 14 to 3 to approve the man Nixon wants as secretary of the interior.

In spite of the opposition by McGovern and a handful of other senators, there was never any serious doubt that the Alaska governor would be confirmed.

Consideration of Hickel's nomination had been put off until today at the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic whip.

The others were approved in a 20-minute session less than three hours after the nation's 37th President took the oath of office at noon.

The White House said there was no time set for swearing in the new Cabinet, and there were indications Nixon wanted to wait until Hickel is confirmed.

Hickel was the only nominee seriously challenged, and most objections centered around his views on conservation. A statement that he was opposed to conservation for its own sake caused much of the discussion because the interior secretary is the custodian of the nation's public lands.

The new President also formally submitted the name of Charles W. Yost, the career diplomat he selected to be ambassador to the United Nations, but action was deferred until today to permit a formal hearing by the Foreign Relations Committee. No opposition was expected.

Explosion Rips Reading Plant

CINCINNATI (AP) — At least three persons were injured, one believed critically, in an explosion early today at the Carlisle Chemical Co. in suburban Reading.

The Reading Fire Department called for help from the fire department at the nearby General Electric plant.

First reports were that the blast may have been caused by a "sodium reaction" at the plant.

Heavy Rains,

San Francisco lightship late Monday.

Cold arctic air bearing down on the Pacific Northwest turned the moisture to snow, blanketing portions of Washington and Oregon with 1 to 3 inches during the night. Heavy snow warnings were posted for eastern Oregon, southern Idaho and western Montana.

Travelers warnings were up in the Midwest and Northern Plains. Driving was termed extremely hazardous in portions of Iowa and Minnesota.

Still another storm system threw rain, drizzle, snow and fog into the East from the Ohio Valley to the Middle Atlantic states. Motorists were warned of a mixture of freezing rain and snow in mountain areas of Maryland, the Virginias and Pennsylvania as well as parts of New Jersey.

Clear skies were limited to the Southwest before dawn.

Temperatures ranged from 15 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont., to 68 at Key West, Fla.

Stock List Irregular

NEW YORK (AP) — Marking time for some clue as to the first steps of the Nixon administration, the stock market moved irregularly in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses were about equal on the New York Stock Exchange, about 20 more issues showing plus signs.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon took a minor loss of 2.11 at 929.14.

Stocks were mixed from the start, and sentiment appeared to be hanging in balance throughout the morning.

Blue chips put on a somewhat steadier performance after their Monday losses had brought declines to some of the prominent market indicators.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 353.1, with industrials up .5, rails off .1, and utilities off .2.

Specialty situated issues continued to focus the attention of traders and investors.

National Dairy was pushed to the top of the most-active list by a block of 200,000 shares at 40, off 7-8, trimming the loss slightly in later dealings.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren
The Real Test Of Love

DEAR ABBY: Recently our daughter was married in an all-white church wedding which was one of the most beautiful ever held in this town. It was a dream come true. To say she looked like an "angel" is not just a mother's pride. I can't describe the joy that was in her fathers' heart and mine.

When the newlyweds returned from their honeymoon, they calmly told us to expect a grandchild in FIVE MONTHS! That means our daughter was a good three months pregnant when she donned her wedding gown and veil. Abby, she knew it all along. How could she have done this to us? We loved this child more than life itself.

HEARTSICK MOTHER

DEAR HEARTSICK: The real test of love is to love our children when they need our love the most. It's easy to love them when they do everything right, and make us "proud" of their accomplishments. But when they disappoint us as children do, occasionally, we can prove the strength of our love by showing compassion, understanding and forgiveness. Try it. You'll have fewer regrets.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my husband is 22. We get along very well but here is the problem: He has very long hair and I mean it is practically down to his shoulders.

During the daytime he keeps it nicely combed, but at night it is all over the place and it drives me crazy. When I mention a net he gets mad. What should I do?

DEAR RUNNING: I agree that man of yours needs a net — maybe both kinds. You'll probably run out of patience before he runs out of hair, so let him know he's no treat to sleep with, and let him make a choice.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to put in my two cents' worth about the woman who didn't want her husband present when she gave birth because she didn't want him to see her "naked" in front of other people. Of all the reasons she could have thought up, that is the dumbest.

In the first place she is NOT naked, and besides, she is there to have a baby, not to make a stag film. And as for your advice in this case, Abby, boo and hiss. Having a baby is a joint effort. She is not doing HER thing, she is doing THEIR thing.

Only once in history did a woman have a child alone, and that was 2,000 years ago in a stable. Sincerely,

P.N. (HOLLYWOOD)

Senate Group Approves Hickel For Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Interior Committee approved Monday, by a 14-3 vote, the controversial nomination of Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska as secretary of the interior in the Nixon administration.

The endorsement, hard won by Hickel in five days of committee scrutiny, came less than two hours before the presidential inauguration of Richard M. Nixon.

The other 11 new Cabinet members had won declared or tacit approval of various Senate committees without major difficulty last week. Most appointments were due to go to the floor for confirmation today.

Sure...
auto insurance
rates are up!
But be glad you live in Ohio.

What isn't up these days? Inflation has increased the cost of almost all the goods and services we require. Yet, Ohio insurance companies are still providing auto insurance at a reasonable price and at a lesser rate of increase than many other related services.

For example, a ten year comparison (1958-1968) shows that the increase in hospital care per day ranged from 78.5% in Toledo hospitals to 114.9% in Cleveland hospitals. Death and injuries for the state increased 54.9%. Number of reportable accidents (excluding fender benders under $100) increased 46.1% and property damage, 61.3%. Yet, auto insurance premiums only increased approximately 20% to 40%, depending on where you live.

The fact that some 600 insurance firms operating in Ohio are setting rates on a free and competitive basis helps keep the cost of auto insurance down. This natural process of competition also gives you the option of buying your insurance at the lowest available price.

Furthermore, Ohio has only 4/10 of 1% of its registered automobiles insured in an Assigned Risk Plan, as against a national average of 2.8%—seven times that of Ohio. The Assigned Risk Plan provides coverage for drivers with a high accident potential.

Some other Ohio advantages: Consider the financial stability of its insurance companies. Since 1947, there has not been one case of insolvency. That means these companies have an outstanding record of ability to pay claims. When an accident happens, you can be sure that an Ohio based company can pay you the full financial protection that you contracted for...when you need it. In addition, cancellations of property and automobile insurance have been kept to a bare minimum in Ohio. In the first six months of 1968, cancellations and non-renewals amounted to only 3/10ths of 1% of the total state auto registrations.

Finally, the city-by-city rate comparisons at the right should be the clincher on behalf of the beneficial auto insurance climate in Ohio. So the next time you hear someone criticize Ohio's insurance rates, play back some of these figures. Show him that you do have good reason to be glad you live in Ohio.

Acquit Pilots
Of '68 Crash

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Taipei district court Monday acquitted two American pilots charged with criminal responsibility for the crash of a Nationalist Chinese airliner near Taipei in February 1968.

The pilots are Capt. Stuart E. Dew, 46, of Hamburg, Ark., and Capt. Hugh H. Hicks, 51, of Hannibal, Ohio. Hicks' wife, also an American, was one of the 22 persons killed in the crash of the Boeing 727 jetliner operated by CAT, the Civil Air Transport line. Another 42 persons aboard the plane survived.

It could not be learned immediately whether Prosecutor Hsu Chen-Chih would appeal the acquittal, which is permissible under Chinese law. Court sources said that he was determined to appeal.

In his written indictment, Hsu accused Dew of manslaughter through occupational negligence, punishable by imprisonment up to five years. Hicks was charged with the lesser crime of manslaughter through negligence for which the maximum penalty is two years in jail.

The court's decision was believed influenced by a Chinese air force investigation conducted at the request of the court. The report said the crash probably was caused by "certain misimpressions resulting from unavoidable human weakness."

Acquit Pilots Of '68 Crash

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Taipei district court Monday acquitted two American pilots charged with criminal responsibility for the crash of a Nationalist Chinese airliner near Taipei in February 1968.

The pilots are Capt. Stuart E. Dew, 46, of Hamburg, Ark., and Capt. Hugh H. Hicks, 51, of Hannibal, Ohio. Hicks' wife, also an American, was one of the 22 persons killed in the crash of the Boeing 727 jetliner operated by CAT, the Civil Air Transport line. Another 42 persons aboard the plane survived.

It could not be learned immediately whether Prosecutor Hsu Chen-Chih would appeal the acquittal, which is permissible under Chinese law. Court sources said that he was determined to appeal.

In his written indictment, Hsu accused Dew of manslaughter through occupational negligence, punishable by imprisonment up to five years. Hicks was charged with the lesser crime of manslaughter through negligence for which the maximum penalty is two years in jail.

The court's decision was believed influenced by a Chinese air force investigation conducted at the request of the court. The report said the crash probably was caused by "certain misimpressions resulting from unavoidable human weakness."

Poverty Funds Stolen

In its haste to expand the "war on poverty," the federal Office of Economic Opportunity has subsidized a number of street gangs and similar activities. The scandals which have rocked OEO-financed operations in New York City would have been major disgraces in a less sophisticated age.

The ease with which pseudo-revolutionary groups have succeeded in taking sizable funds from OEO on the pretext of helping the poor throws suspicion on the entire poverty effort as it is presently managed.

There was the $927,341 given the Backstone Rangers and another Chicago south side street gang. It was more than a year ago that the Chicago Tribune exposed this operation as rampant with fraud and irresponsible conduct.

A Senate investigating panel has since corroborated the fact this OEO-sponsored project was a colossal waste. Gang members chosen to be teachers were almost illiterate but drew salaries up to $6,500 a year. Time sheets were forged to show attendance of more than 40 in classes, though only two to four persons actually attended. OEO checks were issued to the ghost students and cashed by the gang leaders.

The warden of the county jail who, as a psychologist, tried to work with the gangs, described the whole rotten affair as "an attempt to bribe Woodlawn kids not to riot." The result, he said, was "to train kids for organized crime."

Perhaps the new national administration can do something about the Office of Economic Opportunity. Like a complete and thorough housecleaning of personnel from top to bottom and a new set of goals for the millions of dollars the agency has at its disposal.

Farm Taxes Escalate

American farmers need not be told they are not sharing in the prosperity enjoyed by the average worker. Nor need they be informed of the high cost of farming today compared to 10 years ago.

But they may be interested in knowing that for each of the last 25 years their tax load has been higher than the year before. In 1967, last year for which figures are available, farm real estate taxation averaged 10.8 percent of net farm income. This was a sizable jump over 9.1 percent in 1965.

Rising farm real estate taxes, levied largely by local governments, are additional proof of the cost squeeze which has afflicted this one large segment of the American community more than most others.

Safety Advance

First came the word from Britain that a study showed lasses wearing miniskirts were safer walking along highways at night because drivers couldn't miss seeing them.

Now the National Safety Council reports that some contractors are using miniskirted misses as "flagwomen" because drivers weren't paying attention to their male firemen.

If this trend continues, the miniskirt may someday be hailed as the best thing to come along in years in the field of safety. That no one is complaining in itself is something new in safety proposals.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — "This overheated economy just sucked imports in all over the place," said the Treasury official to the House-Senate subcommittee.

In this one simple sentence did Frederick Deming, Treasury undersecretary, speak of a situation that is: 1. In the news almost every day; 2. Considered dangerous by many experts; 3. All but impossible to understand.

What Deming meant by his statement, made last week, was that the excess of demand and money in the United States was making imported goods not only desirable but purchasable—which is bad for the balance of payments.

This problem has been with us for 11 years now and with each discussion it seems to get more complex and tangled. For many people its mere mention on a newspaper page is reason enough to turn to the crossword puzzle.

Simply stated, a country has a balance of payments when the money it sends or spends abroad equals that brought into the country by foreigners. Scarcely it is really in balance, however. Generally there is a surplus or deficit.

Now any country is liable at some time or another to be in a deficit condition, because it is impossible for the world's nations to perfectly balance their spending and buying.

However, when a nation runs up deficits for 11 years the other countries begin to worry. They see themselves with too many dollars and wonder if it might not be safer to have gold instead. And so they trade their dollars for gold.

This is the dangerous aspect of the balance—really the imbalance—of payments situation. If confidence is lost in the dollar it can be catastrophic for world trade, for the dollar is still the most acceptable means of exchange.

What makes the dangerous situation critical is that inflation in the United States has a double impact on this imbalance.

Deming aptly described the situation as "miserable." Just a year ago the country had more than $4 billion in surplus. And just four years ago some $6 billion more goods were sold than bought.

But, you say, this still leaves the United States with a balance in its favor. Yes, a balance of trade, but trade is only one aspect of the balance of payments. Not all the money that goes in and out of a nation is trade.

The United States, for example, supports a costly war, in Vietnam, thousands of troops in Europe, spends money in aiding less developed nations. In addition, corporations spend on foreign investments.

The result of all factors has been an imbalance in payments for 11 years. This past year, because foreign money was attracted to the U.S. stock markets, and because of restrictions on foreign investments, the first surplus since 1957 was reached.

The worries continue, however. What would happen if restrictions on foreign investments were lifted? And of ever greater importance, what happens if inflation cannot be controlled and continues to suck in foreign goods?

Irish Protesters

Clash With Police

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—More than 1,000 housing demonstrators were evicted by club-wielding police when they staged a sitdown Saturday night in the heart of Dublin. Scores were injured, and organizers claimed young girls were manhandled and beaten.

Ireland's largest union, the Transport and General Workers Union, said it would call for protest demonstrations against the police later this week.

Saturday's demonstration was sparked by the jailing of a leader of the Dublin Housing Action claims for the city's 10,000 families without adequate homes. The jailed man, Denis Dennehy, is on a hunger strike after being imprisoned for occupying a vacant house with his wife and two young children.

Wilberforce

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP)—Wilberforce University, beset with boycotting students and bomb scares, announced Monday an impartial arbitrator has been hired to try and solve the volatile dispute with the students.

Dr. Rembert E. Stokes, university president, said all classes have been officially suspended through Wednesday while a professor of labor law meets with student and faculty representatives.

The arbitrator is Frederic Freilicher of the New York State School for Labor Relations at Cornell University, who was scheduled to arrive on the campus this afternoon.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Shock therapy that is used in some cases of severe depression or other mental illness seems to be confusing. The shock that is given is not an emotional one but rather an actual treatment with specially devised electric hookups to the skull.

The diagnosis of mental illnesses is a very difficult one and is based on long years of study and careful observation. It is for this reason that I so often ask readers not to use the word schizophrenia or paranoid as hostile descriptions of someone's behavior. These are classifications that can only be made by psychiatrists or psychologists who take into consideration the history of the illness and the duration and intensity of the behavior symptoms. Shock treatment can be performed with drugs in addition to electro shock methods for marked melancholia, depression, and even manic states. Shock therapy can be given in the doctor's office or in the hospital, depending on the nature of the illness and the personality of the patient.

In carefully selected cases, more than 90 percent of the patients treated are benefited by one of the forms of shock therapy. Before such treatment is started, a complete medical examination is made to be sure that the general physical condition of the patient can withstand this intensive form of treatment. The risk is slight, or even negligible, when performed by the modern, well-trained specialist.

African sleeping sickness is one of many diseases caused by parasites. In this group might be included leishmaniasis, kalaazar and oriental sore.

The African disease is caused by an organism known as trypanosoma and is almost always transmitted by the tsetse fly. This extremely serious disease, along with malaria and other parasitic diseases, is being effectively treated by teams of sanitation experts sent to underprivileged countries by the World Health Organization.

The control of contamination of food and water and the spreading of disease by flies and mites are part of an intensive program that will eventually wipe these diseases out of each country and spare the lives of many who succumb to the complication of parasitic diseases.

Cleft palate and harelip are identified with each other because they occur in many cases of abnormal development of a child within the womb of the mother. They are not the same.

A cleft in the palate, or the roof of the mouth, is an opening from the mouth into the nose due to malformation in development. Harelip is due to the failure of both sides of the body to fuse properly. There seems to be a family tendency towards these congenital or birth errors. When they are allowed to go untreated, they are, of course, responsible for poor speech, besides the anguishing appearance.

Surgery of the cleft palate and the harelip has been so refined that operations can be performed within the first few weeks after a child is born. The results now are extremely gratifying and with plastic repair of the lip, children grow into normal adults without embarrassment or handicap.

Nixon And The Negroes

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The black community continues to pull apart, with the militants pushing for a sort of voluntary apartheid and the moderates grudgingly endorsing Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He said, apropos of the intransigents' demands for separate "black studies departments" in the schools, that if Negroes "are going to live in a white world, they had better learn what the white boys are learning."

The split is going to bedevil the new Nixon Administration if any fumbles are made in dealing with the quite legitimate Negro need for self-respect. All that can be said at the moment is that Richard Nixon's team is approaching the problem with humility, and is trying hard.

The pledge to improve the Negro's condition, offered by Nixon at the Hotel Pierre in New York when he was still only a President-elect, was assuredly sincere. The problem of recruiting able Negroes to work in the Nixon government remains acute, however. There is just enough suspicion left over from last fall's campaign to keep black volunteers from stepping forward to take Washington jobs.

It's a matter of finding representative black moderates to risk the charge of Uncle Tomism. A couple of things have been done, however, to get someone to bell the cat. Bob Finch, the new Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, was careful to keep from ruffling black feelings when he picked an advisory committee to help him staff his own organization. The Finch group contained only one black, James Farmer, former head of the Congress of Racial Equality who lost out in November in a House race to represent the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn in Washington. Dr. Thomas Matthew, the Negro neurosurgeon from New York who has started so many black self-help businesses, let his able white lieutenant, Tom Ryan, substitute for him on the Finch committee. The other members of the committee — John Venable, a California assemblyman; Pat Moynihan, Nixon's White House urbanologist; Mrs. Patricia Hitt;

Dr. Neil Solomon of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Paul McCloskey of California; Herbert Cornuelle, head of the United Fruit Company; and Dr. Sidney Tickton — have been concerned with the "little niceties" that show true concern for black problems.

Meanwhile, Dr. Matthew and Dr. Kenneth Clark, Negro leaders who believe in black power but not in black separatism, have been busy drawing up a list of qualified Negroes that might be induced to work for the Nixon Administration. The argument presented by Dr. Matthew and Dr. Clark is that if whites are willing to make sacrifices to take political jobs, Negroes cannot afford to hang back.

An effort will be made to assure capable Negroes that they need not fear being among the first to take sub-Cabinet positions. The Matthew-Clark list will presumably go to Vice President Spiro Agnew; it will be interesting to see what becomes of it.

The Negroes' distrust of the Nixon Administration surfaced at the Hotel Pierre meeting in New York when Dr. Nathan Wright, chairman of the Black Power Conference, objected to the presence of White House urbanologist Moynihan.

"When we have white people advising a man of responsibility on black affairs," said Dr. Wright, "this is plantationism." Not all the Negro leaders at the Nixon meeting, however, were as touchy as Dr. Wright. The Reverend Ralph Abernathy, Martin Luther King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was willing to grant Mr. Nixon the right to choose his own counsel.

The truly significant happening on the race front as the Nixon Administration takes office is Roy Wilkins' threat to test the legality of all-black studies departments in the schools. Demands for all-black studies under the complete control of blacks have cropped up simultaneously at so many colleges that they have had columnist Drew Pearson taking a leaf out of the late Senator Joe McCarthy's book and talking about a "revolutionary conspiracy." This is strange language for Pearson. Wilkins doesn't go so far as to insinuate that there is revolutionary staff work involved in making "non-negotiable" demands on college administrators. Yet the fact that a Negro leader of Mr. Wilkins' stature is willing to speak out against black extremists augurs well for Mr. Nixon's chances to gain the cooperation of the huge moderate black community, at least on a tentative try-it-out basis.

Vicki Cole Central Figure At Inauguration Festivities

WASHINGTON (AP) — When young Vicki Cole held up her placard during Richard Nixon's campaign stop in Deshler, Ohio, last fall she couldn't have anticipated the whirlwind of activity that lay ahead of her.

But she was here Monday, a central figure amid the splendor and pageantry that accompanies the inauguration of an American President.

Vicki, 13-year-old daughter of a Methodist minister, watched the swearing-in ceremonies and rode atop the theme float of the inaugural parade down Pennsylvania Avenue.

Ohio State University's marching band was one of the top musical contributions to the parade.

After it was all over, Vicki concluded, "The spirit of this country is terrific." And President Nixon, she said, is great.

The sign Vicki held during Nixon's whistlestop at Deshler read "Bring Us Together" and inspired the "Forward Together" theme of Nixon's administration.

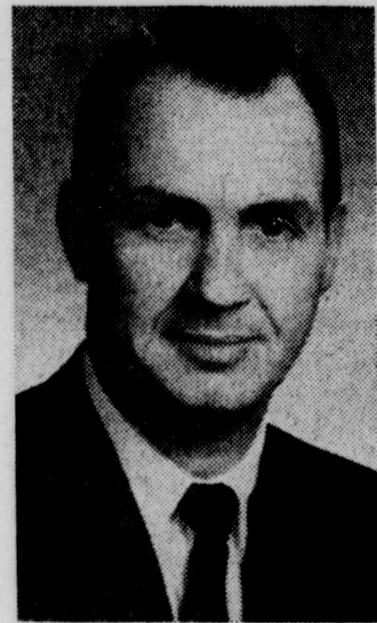

After Vicki was identified as the holder of the placard, Nixon invited her to Washington to observe and participate in the inaugural activities.

The theme float on which Vicki rode Monday was the largest in the parade. The float's granite shape was designed to represent bedrock qualities inherent in the nation and its youth.

With Vicki on the float were 57 members of the singing group "Up With People." Vicki seemed to take all the activities in stride.

After watching the swearing-in she went with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. David Cole, to the office of Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, for lunch. She then went to the foot of Capitol Hill to climb aboard the float.

Bank Names New Officer

GEORGE W. HANEY

Effective February 1, George W. Haney will be associated with the First National Bank of Circleville.

He will assume the position of loan officer in the loan department, according to the announcement by Frank Gans, bank president.

Haney has been employed by City Loan for 20 years in the Logan, Wellston, Circleville, Middletown and Portsmouth offices. He served as manager of the offices at Cambridge and Athens.

He is a graduate of Logan High School in Logan and attended Tusculum College in Greeneville, Tenn. He served with the U.S. Marine Corp for three years.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Haney of Logan, he is married to the former Dorothy Bowling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowling, Circleville.

Warren Officers Still 'Off Sick'

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Safety forces in Warren, who have been calling in sick, sent a telegram to Mayor Raymond E. Schryver Monday saying they had representatives to meet with city officials to discuss their demand for a pay raise and other benefits.

The telegram was in response to an answer given by Schryver when asked if any new negotiations were scheduled.

"You can't meet with men who are sick," the mayor said. "We certainly would not want to ask sick men to a meeting."

All 9 Justices Hear Same Tune

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arriving at the Smithsonian Institution for one of the inaugural balls, Richard Nixon spotted Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Remarking that the other eight members of the court were expected at the same party, Nixon said:

"This is one way to get all nine justices to dance to the same tune."

State Workers

Report On Pay Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the State Employees Union scheduled a news conference today to report on progress in negotiations on the union's demand for a $1,500 a year across-the-board pay increase for workers at state institutions and universities.

Al Bilik, executive director of the union, met Monday with State Personnel Director Wayne Ward to discuss the union's demands, which also include a long list of collective bargaining rights and other fringe benefits. About 20 representatives of various union locals also attended the meeting.

Dedication Slated For New School

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dedication ceremonies are scheduled Feb. 14 for Ohio State University's new school of nursing.

The $2.4 million structure already is partly in use. Eventually it will house about 90 nursing faculty members and 494 student nurses.

Young Czech Dies Of Burns; Leaders Fear New Outbreak

PRAGUE (AP) — Spurred by the death of Jan Palach, Czech students talked Monday of strikes and mass meetings to pressure their leaders into standing up to the Soviet occupiers.

Palach died Sunday, three days after he set himself afire in a protest that electrified the nation. Many Czechs said his act of sacrifice affected the country more than anything since the Soviet invasion five months ago.

"We have new courage, a new symbol," said one young man who had placed a candle in Wenceslas Square, where the 21-year-old student drenched himself with gasoline and set himself afire.

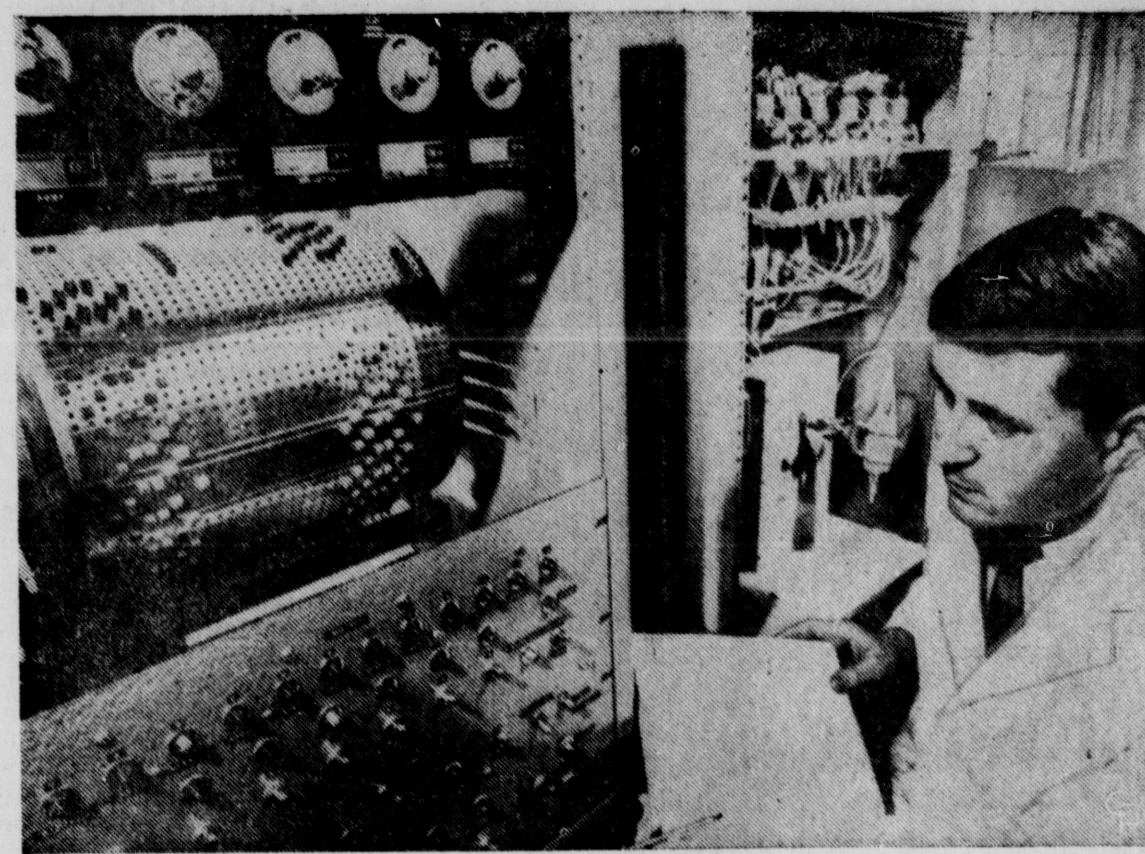

The country's Communist leaders tried to prevent a new crisis that could bring a new Soviet crackdown. They faced the threat of another student becoming a human torch to protest the loss of freedoms since the invasion and of the growing gap between the leadership and the public.

Speakers at rallies and on radio and television asked that there be no more human sacrifices. Another student who talked with Palach three hours before he died said in a broadcast that Palach told him: "My act has fulfilled the purpose but let nobody else do it... Let the living make their efforts in the struggle. I say goodbye. We may still see each other."

Karel Kovanda, a representative of the student union in Bohemia and Moravia, told a rally the students will act, but "we have to choose acts which will be adequate to Jan Palach."

Students passed the word for a mass meeting in Prague's Old Town Square and chanted "strike" on streetcars and on shop windows in Wenceslas Square.

Tax Receipts In 1st Half Show Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Tax receipts for the state's general revenue fund reached an all-time high of $449.6 million during the first half of fiscal 1969. State Auditor Roger Cloud noted this today in reporting the status of the fund, the backbone of the state operations.

Cloud said the flow of funds into the state coffers increased $92,489,848, or 25.9 per cent over the $357.1 million collected during the same period of last fiscal year.

Cloud said the figures reflect an additional one cent sales and cigarette tax for a two-month period. The taxes were designed to support school programs of the 107th General Assembly.

Sales tax revenue was $303 million, which accounted for $82 million of the over-all boost in revenue.

Cigarette tax income was $40,555,071, up $4,201,445, while public utility excise tax collections amounted to $33,363,362 an increase of $1,659,859 over last year.

Pat Nixon Talks Of Husband's Parents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pat Nixon, the new First Lady, had one regret about the ceremonies installing her husband as 37th president of the United States.

"I only wish his mother and father could have been here. How proud they would have been," said Mrs. Nixon.

The telegram was in response to an answer given by Schryver when asked if any new negotiations were scheduled.

"You can't meet with men who are sick," the mayor said. "We certainly would not want to ask sick men to a meeting."

Presbyterian Women's Assn. Circles Meet

Mrs. Wayne Smith presented the program for the Morning and Afternoon Circles of the Women's Assn. of the Presbyterian Church for the meetings held Thursday.

The business session of the Morning Circle was conducted by Mrs. James Bach, chairman. Plans were made for helping with the clothing center. Material for layette blankets was distributed as a sewing project for local needs.

In the afternoon Mrs. Emerson Spicer presided over the combined Circle A and Circle B meeting. She led the devotions with Bible reading and a prayer from "Fellowship Of The Least Coin." Mrs. Loren Stevenson distributed thank offering boxes. Plans were made for the group to sew beginning 1:30 p.m. Jan. 28.

Mrs. Smith used as her program theme "New Mission In Art" explaining it with a talk concerning the work of Sister Corita. This artist used the serograph process for her prints in which she seeks to communicate the joy of Christian love. With a skillful combination of color advertising signs and Biblical and philosophical quotes, Sister Corita takes a creation leap into the unknown. This truth she feels is revealed in everyday surroundings which we need to see and feel creatively. Mrs. Smith illustrated her presentation with a collection of the prints of Sister Corita.

The Evening Circle will meet 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the church lounge with Mrs. Smith presenting the program.

Presbyterian Women's Assn. Circles Meet

Mrs. Wayne Smith presented the program for the Morning and Afternoon Circles of the Women's Assn. of the Presbyterian Church for the meetings held Thursday.

The business session of the Morning Circle was conducted by Mrs. James Bach, chairman. Plans were made for helping with the clothing center. Material for layette blankets was distributed as a sewing project for local needs.

In the afternoon Mrs. Emerson Spicer presided over the combined Circle A and Circle B meeting. She led the devotion with Bible reading and a prayer from "Fellowship Of The Least Coin." Mrs. Loren Stevenson distributed thank offering boxes. Plans were made for the group to sew beginning 1:30 p.m. Jan. 28.

Mrs. Smith used as her program theme "New Mission In Art" explaining it with a talk concerning the work of Sister Corita. This artist used the serigraph process for her prints in which she seeks to communicate the joy of Christian love. With a skillful combination of color advertising signs and Biblical and philosophical quotes, Sister Corita takes a creation leap into the unknown. This truth she feels is revealed in everyday surroundings which we need to see and feel creatively. Mrs. Smith illustrated her presentation with a collection of the prints of Sister Corita.

The Evening Circle will meet 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the church lounge with Mrs. Smith presenting the program.

Demonstrators Fail In Try To Disrupt Nixon's Parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeering, cursing antiwar demonstrators, some wearing white masks in grotesque mimicry of Richard M. Nixon, tried but failed to interrupt the pageantry of the new Presidents Inauguration day.

Eighty demonstrators were arrested Monday and some left short but sharp encounters with police nursing bloodied heads. But the violence fell far short of the pitched battles at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last August.

Most of the arrests were for disorderly conduct, police headquarters said. Two youths were charged with burning an American flag and one with assaulting a policeman.

Demonstrators dressed in hippie garb, some wrapped in blankets to ward off the near-freezing temperature, charged a cordon of policemen guarding the parade route along Pennsylvania Avenue.

Paratroopers rushed to form a second line of defense as Nixon's armored limousine passed. He pointedly turned his back to wave at the cheering crowd on the other side of the wide avenue but his car speeded up suddenly when a large rock hit within a foot of it.

Secret Service agents accompanying the President's car battled down several objects that flew toward it.

The demonstrators were originally part of a "counter inaugural" called by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. Almost all the people who confronted the police were white, although some Negroes and other whites stood on sidewalks and shouted encouragement.

After Nixon passed they left Pennsylvania Avenue and ran toward Lafayette Park but never came closer than a well-guarded block from the White House and its reviewing stand, where Nixon watched the parade through bullet-resistant glass.

Church Schedules Missionary Meet

The public is invited to attend.

Clinton County Teens 'Well'

Missing Pair Call From N.C.

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Two well-known Clinton County teen-agers, missing from their Wilmington homes since Friday, reportedly are "well and together" in North Carolina.

But the circumstances of their three-day disappearance have not come to light.

One county policeman hinted at elopement.

The mother of Anne Swaim, said late Monday she had received a telephone call from her daughter in North Carolina, who said she and Mike Riley, also 18, were "well and together."

The two are children of county judges.

Mrs. Swaim said her daughter did not say from which North Carolina town she was calling, but that the couple would arrive in Wilmington Wednesday morning.

Sheriff Donald Osborn said today Mrs. Swaim notified him of the call Monday afternoon, but he knew nothing else about the case.

Anne and Mike were the object of intensive searches in the county through Monday. The parents and policemen suspected foul play.

"At least we are thankful she is alive and well and that this foul play thing, for which we were fearful, didn't happen," said Common Pleas Judge Luther Swaim.

The couple disappeared Friday night after saying they were going for a snack in nearby Xenia. They left in the Buick of young Riley's father.

Probate-Juvenile Court Judge Paul Riley refused to comment after being informed of Monday's telephone call.

The Swaims and the Rileys are neighbors, but they discounted any romantic tie-up between Anne and Mike.

Each visited the other's home "but they have never dated," Judge Swaim said.

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon ended his first day as President on a jubilant social note with a four-hour tour of six inaugural balls so jam-packed with bejeweled ladies and tuxedo-clad men that dancing was a near impossibility.

At least 30,000 ballgoers gave the new President and his lady cheering ovations as he made the rounds Monday night in white tie and tails, making brief speeches laced with humor and expressing faith in the American people.

The President and his family spent about 30 minutes at each ball and he wound up at 1:30 a.m. on a serious note:

"America is a good country," he said, "and Americans are good people. I hope we can be worthy of the great goodness that is in America—these next four years."

Mainly, though, Nixon was in a joking mood.

He reported that "President Johnson left the lights on at the White House for us."

When he finally headed home, he told a delighted crowd: "They gave me the key to the front door of the White House and I'm going home to see if it fits."

Nixon's enjoyment of his new role was obvious. Many of his joking remarks were directed at how long he had sought the presidency.

"Where I sit," he said, "Any inauguration would be good. I thought this one was especially good, didn't you?"

The balls were the big windup social event of three days of inaugural activities and they were a sellout at $35 a head and $1000 for a box. Some 25 bands, including Lionel Hampton, Sammy Kaye, Lester Lanin, Meyer Davis, Guy Lombardo and Duke Ellington performed.

It was a crushing mob scene everywhere. Nixon surveying the crowds, joked: "Now I know what they mean by 'Bring us together,'" alluding to the slogan of his administration.

"The only advantage," he noted, "is that I was afraid I was going to have to dance tonight." He confided "I'm not a very good dancer."

Nixon introduced his family:

Boy Confuses God And Dirksen

MILTON, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Ann Brewer turned on her radio Monday to hear the inauguration ceremonies in Washington and the first voice was of a clergyman.

"What's he saying?" asked her 5-year-old son, Clark.

"He's praying," said Mrs. Brewer. "He's talking to God."

Then came the well-known resonant voice of U.S. Sen. Everett S. Dirksen, who acted as director of the ceremonies.

"Is that God answering?" asked Clark.

wife Pat, daughter Tricia, 22, and her escort, Doug Rogers, son of the secretary of state; daughter Julie, 20, and her husband, David Eisenhower.

He said Pat "has been first lady in my house 28½ years, now she's First Lady in the White House."

Mrs. Nixon wore a mimosa yellow silk satin ballgown its jacket and cummerbund a-glitter with jewels that took 260 hours to embroider.

He made just about the same speech, with a few ad libs, at each ball at the Smithsonian Institution and the five hotels, expressing thanks to those who supported him in 20 years in politics and came to Washington to celebrate his inauguration.

In the years to come, Nixon said, they would forget that it was a cold day and rained at night. "You'll simply remember the glow of friendship."

And, he promised, to their cheers "We're not going to let you down."

Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew were on the circuit, too, and finally wound up on the same platform with the Nixons around midnight.

"A very great evening for us," Nixon declared.

Demonstrators dressed in hippie garb, some wrapped in blankets to ward off the near-freezing temperature, charged a cordon of policemen guarding the parade route along Pennsylvania Avenue.

Paratroopers rushed to form a second line of defense as Nixon's armored limousine passed. He pointedly turned his back to wave at the cheering crowd on the other side of the wide avenue but his car speeded up suddenly when a large rock hit within a foot of it.

Secret Service agents accompanying the President's car batted down several objects that flew toward it.

The demonstrators were originally part of a "counter inaugural" called by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. Almost all the people who confronted the police were white, although some Negroes and other whites stood on sidewalks and shouted encouragement.

After Nixon passed they left Pennsylvania Avenue and ran toward Lafayette Park but never came closer than a well-guarded block from the White House and its reviewing stand, where Nixon watched the parade through bullet-resistant glass.

Church Schedules Missionary Meet

The First Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio St., will conduct its monthly missionary service 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Rev. W. L. Cozad, general superintendent of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union will be the speaker. He has visited and spoken at many missionary stations in the West Indies and the Texas-Mexican border. He will show slides taken during a trip to the Holy Land.

The public is invited to attend.

Can a Livestock Farmer Afford NOT to Grow Alfalfa?

Not if he wants the most protein per acre, to sustain high milk production or build solid gains. Tests show you'd have to grow 260 bu. of corn per acre to equal the value of six tons per acre of top quality Alfalfa hay. (Not just any Alfalfa — a good, high-yielding, high-protein variety like Scout Alfalfa from LANDMARK.) No wonder profit-conscious livestock farmers are planting Scout — they figure they can't afford not to!

Watch for Tempo Alfalfa — a new and even better LANDMARK variety in limited supply. Consider these other high-producing LANDMARK forages: Bonanza or Multi-Hardy Alfalfa and FFR-66 Sorgo-Sudan hybrid. ORDER NOW AND ASSURE YOUR SUPPLY OF TOP PRODUCING SEED FOR '69.

President Attends Round Of 6 Gala Balls

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon ended his first day as President on a jubilant social note with a four-hour tour of six inaugural balls so jam-packed with bejeweled ladies and tuxedo-clad men that dancing was a near impossibility.

At least 30,000 ballgoers gave the new President and his lady cheering ovations as he made the rounds Monday night in white tie and tails, making brief speeches laced with humor and expressing faith in the American people.

The President and his family spent about 30 minutes at each ball and he wound up at 1:30 a.m. on a serious note:

"America is a good country," he said, "and Americans are good people. I hope we can be worthy of the great goodness that is in America—these next four years."

Mainly, though, Nixon was in a joking mood. He reported that "President Johnson left the lights on at the White House for us."

When he finally headed home, he told a delighted crowd: "They gave me the key to the front door of the White House and I'm going home to see if it fits."

Nixon's enjoyment of his new role was obvious. Many of his joking remarks were directed at how long he had sought the presidency.

"Where I sit," he said, "Any inauguration would be good. I thought this one was especially good, didn't you?"

The balls were the big windup social event of three days of inaugural activities and they were a sellout at $35 a head and $1000 for a box. Some 25 bands, including Lionel Hampton, Sammy Kaye, Lester Lanin, Meyer Davis, Guy Lombardo and Duke Ellington performed.

It was a crushing mob scene everywhere. Nixon surveying the crowds, joked: "Now I know what they mean by 'Bring us together,'" alluding to the slogan of his administration.

"The only advantage," he noted, "is that I was afraid I was going to have to dance tonight." He confided "I'm not a very good dancer."

Nixon introduced his family:

Boy Confuses God And Dirksen

MILTON, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Ann Brewer turned on her radio Monday to hear the inauguration ceremonies in Washington and the first voice was of a clergyman.

"What's he saying?" asked her 5-year-old son, Clark.

"He's praying," said Mrs. Brewer. "He's talking to God."

Then came the well-known resonant voice of U.S. Sen. Everett S. Dirksen, who acted as director of the ceremonies.

"Is that God answering?" asked Clark.

wife Pat, daughter Tricia, 22, and her escort, Doug Rogers, son of the secretary of state; daughter Julie, 20, and her husband, David Eisenhower.

He said Pat "has been first lady in my house 28½ years, now she's First Lady in the White House."

Mrs. Nixon wore a mimosa yellow silk satin ballgown its jacket and cummerbund a-glitter with jewels that took 260 hours to embroider.

He made just about the same speech, with a few ad libs, at each ball at the Smithsonian Institution and the five hotels, expressing thanks to those who supported him in 20 years in politics and came to Washington to celebrate his inauguration.

In the years to come, Nixon said, they would forget that it was a cold day and rained at night. "You'll simply remember the glow of friendship."

And, he promised, to their cheers "We're not going to let you down."

Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew were on the circuit, too, and finally wound up on the same platform with the Nixons around midnight.

"A very great evening for us," Nixon declared.

Clinton County Teens 'Well'

Missing Pair Call From N.C.

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Two well-known Clinton County teen-agers, missing from their Wilmington homes since Friday, reportedly are "well and together" in North Carolina.

But the circumstances of their three-day disappearance have not come to light.

One county policeman hinted at elopement.

The mother of Anne Swaim, said late Monday she had received a telephone call from her daughter in North Carolina, who said she and Mike Riley, also 18, were "well and together."

The two are children of county judges.

Mrs. Swaim said her daughter did not say from which North Carolina town she was calling, but that the couple would arrive in Wilmington Wednesday morning.

Sheriff Donald Osborn said today Mrs. Swaim notified him of the call Monday afternoon, but he knew nothing else about the case.

Anne and Mike were the object of intensive searches in the county through Monday. The parents and policemen suspected foul play.

"At least we are thankful she is alive and well and that this foul play thing, for which we were fearful, didn't happen," said Common Pleas Judge Luther Swaim.

The couple disappeared Friday night after saying they were going for a snack in nearby Xenia. They left in the Buick of young Riley's father.

Probate-Juvenile Court Judge Paul Riley refused to comment after being informed of Monday's telephone call.

The Swaims and the Rileys are neighbors, but they discounted any romantic tie-up between Anne and Mike.

Each visited the other's home "but they have never dated," Judge Swaim said.

Johnsons' Trip Home Mixture Of Joy And Nostalgia

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The trapping of power were still there—the big blue and white presidential jet, the historic seal of office, the Secret Service, the special communications machines, the special attentions of a solicitous crew.

But the burdens of power were gone. The man with the bag for Armageddon was gone. It made all the difference. The plane felt lighter.

Flying home from Washington history, Lyndon B. Johnson and his family reflected a mixture of weary exaltation, relief, liberation and nostalgia. They were returning to Texas in the same plane in which the 36th president of the United States took his oath of office five years and two months ago in Dallas.

Clay Shaw Trial Starts In New Orleans

Garrison Again Cites Federal 'Interference'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Selection of the Clay Shaw trial jury starts today in a courtroom showdown on Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's claim that President John F. Kennedy was killed by a band of conspirators—not by a lone sniper.

Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. summoned 169 citizens for examination as prospective jurors with still others readily available.

Shaw, 55, a tall, chain-smoking, retired business executive is charged with conspiring to murder the president who was assassinated in Dallas November 22, 1963.

The Criminal district courtroom was under extraordinary guard. Deputies were under orders to search all spectators.

Opening of the trial was preceded by an unusual legal flip-flop by the prosecution. Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock, named by Garrison to handle the case, asked Friday that the trial be delayed indefinitely. Then he withdrew the motion when it came before Judge Haggerty in a hearing Monday.

At the hearing, Alcock accused U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark of deliberately interfering by releasing a report on the Kennedy autopsy "on the eve of the picking of the jury for the Shaw trial."

Clark's announcement Thursday was that a panel of experts had examined the secret record and upheld the autopsy report that the bullets which killed the President were fired from above and behind.

Garrison says the autopsy material would back his contention that the President was hit by bullets fired from both front and rear.

"It was not the first time that Atty. Gen. Clark tried to interfere in this case with public statements," said Alcock in contending that Clark's statement could influence prospective jurors.

Youth Denies Maiming Girl

CINCINNATI (AP) — Defendant Charles Dunigan Monday denied he maimed a teenage white girl and attacked a policeman during racial rioting here last August.

Testifying before a Hamilton County Common Pleas Court jury, the 16-year-old Negro said he saw the commotion near an automobile a block away, heard an order to halt, and was shot when he turned around.

He is being tried on charges of maiming the girl and assaulting a police officer. The case is expected to be handed to the jury later this week.

Marsha Lynn Cox, 18, Middletown, was dragged from her car Aug. 16 and severely beaten. She suffered a broken nose and jaw, and eventually lost an eye.

Patrolman Robert Jahnigen testified earlier that Dunigan came at him with a bottle when he shot and wounded him in the stomach. Dunigan was one of two Negroes standing near the Cox vehicle, according to the patrolmen.

Hopes Lyn Nugent To Have Opportunity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Johnson believes everybody in the country should want to be president—including his grandson Lyn Nugent.

"If he behaves himself and does the right thing and works hard," Johnson told a group of well wishers Monday, "then he'll have the opportunity to become president."

the same plane on which he flew to Washington with the body and the widow of the 35th president.

If that somber fact gave them a special feeling of coming full cycle, they did not express it. But they did talk of their last moments in the White House, the last special little things they did and their thoughts on leaving.

The former president said he felt "different within four seconds" after President Nixon took his oath. Running through his mind, he said, was his concern for the new chief executive and the problems he faced.

Also, Johnson said, he felt "great relief" that the problems were no longer his, that he could now roam his ranch without being followed by "the man with the bag." This referred to the ever-present companion of presidents who carries the secret code by which orders would be transmitted in event of nuclear attack.

He exhibited little trace of the President who last March 31 renounced another term in the White House in the hope that his renunciation could help unite a bitterly divided nation. "It was our decision, our choice," he said. "Our time had come."

"Things now are a lot better than we had expected. Substantive peace talks have begun in Paris. The astronauts are back safely from the moon. Cambodia has turned our men loose. Now we just hope that good things will happen for Mr. Nixon."

Mrs. Johnson, holding her husband's hand, recalled that on her last morning in the White House she arose one hour earlier to wander alone through her favorite rooms, especially the yellow Oval Room, with its sweeping view of the Washington Monument, the Jefferson Memorial. Laughing, she also recalled that the last thing she packed was a book entitled "Everything To Live For."

Her smile faded as she recalled her last view of the White House, pulling away and seeing the windows "full of faces, the ushers, the butlers, all those people who were so nice to us. Some were in tears."

Her daughters, Luci Nugent and Lynda Bird Robb, alternated between serious memories and mutual needling. They slept together the last night in the White House in the Lincoln bedroom.

"We wanted to see if the ghost of Lincoln still existed," said Luci.

"We never found out," said Lynda Bird. "There was too much noise. Luci snores."

An active member of Masonic lodges, Davis belongs to the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Aladdin Temple, Pickaway County Shrine Club and Pickaway County Lodge 23.

OTHER organizations he has been active in include the Elks, of which he was exalted ruler, Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, Presbyterian Church and the Pickaway County Historical Society.

George Foresman was named as the third Senior Citizen. Amid the applause of the 150 people present at the banquet, he addressed the audience and thanked them for what he called "one of the greatest honors of my life."

Foresman, who was born in South Bloomfield in 1884, completed the eighth grade in school and then went to work to earn a living in 1897. By 1936 he was the president of First National Bank. He remained the bank's president until 1968 when he retired.

Work began for Foresman when he was 13-years-old. He was a part-time employee at Neuding Grocery and a delivery boy for the Union Herald.

He worked for Gottlieb-Hartmeyer General Store and then for the C & M Railroad. Later he went to work for Ohio Cereal Co., now Ralston Purina Company, until the building burned down in 1913.

In 1913 he married Harriet Millat and began farming. He is still an active farm manager.

FOR nine years, from 1924-33, he was postmaster at Circleville. Later he helped organize the First National Bank.

An active member of the local Presbyterian Church, he was elected to be a trustee for life. He is also a member of the Farm Bureau, past president of Rotary Club, member of Elks and past chairman of Pickaway County Bankers Assn.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio League of Women Voters is expected to take a stand on a number of legislative subjects during the group's "All Ohio Human Resources Day" conference here today and Wednesday.

Issues to be discussed include finances, welfare, taxes, education and housing problems. The league's board of directors will formulate a position paper on the issues.

Bomb China Missile Sites, Sawyer Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charles Sawyer, former secretary of Commerce under President Truman, said Monday the United States should bomb missile sites in China and predicted that Russia would not retaliate.

The Cincinnati Democrat, here to address the Rotary Club, told newsmen that "not much" would result from the bombing of China missile sites and, "I don't think it would lead to any trouble with Russia."

Sawyer also said that America should use any military action necessary to end the Vietnam war. Although not advocating the use of nuclear weapons, he said:

"I don't see the sacredness of nuclear weapons. But as long as we have them we might as well use them as well as other weapons."

Sawyer said the United States is being played for a "sucker" in the area of foreign aid and recommended that the program be cut sharply.

"Many countries who receive aid do not appreciate it and the United States does not get the results it desires," he said.

High Court Limits Open Housing Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court limited Monday the power of cities to repeal open-housing laws.

In an 8-1 decision the court found Akron, Ohio, had put an unconstitutional "special burden" on its Negro residents by requiring bans on housing discrimination to have the approval of the majority of the voters in the city.

Golden Lamb Inn Leased

Historic Golden Lamb Inn at Lebanon has been leased by two Cincinnati brothers, Michael and Lee Comisar, who own the Maisonette and Normandie Steak & Chop House in Cincinnati.

The Inn has been owned and operated for 40 years by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Jones. It is Ohio's oldest hotel, having been built in 1803 as a stopover on the stage coach route between Dayton and Cincinnati. It bears official recognition from the U.S. Department of the Interior as an authentic historic building, and is regarded as one of the authentic coaching inns of the United States.

The late Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gosnell, who operated Pickaway Arms in Circleville for many years, were former managers of the Golden Lamb Inn. It is located approximately 90 minutes driving time from Circleville.

Some committees, such as Salary, Negotiation, and Constitution Revision will report.

CTA Meeting Scheduled

The Circleville Teacher's Association will hold its January meeting 3:45 p.m. Wednesday in the High Street Elementary School.

Jack Widner, field service consultant for the Ohio Education Association, and Jim Newlin, executive secretary of higher education, will present new programs of the OEA, including the expanded Circle Services, which makes various products available to members of OEA at discount prices.

Reports will be given on the recent OEA Convention in Columbus and also on the Cleveland Conference on Instruction.

Johnsons' Trip Home Mixture Of Joy And Nostalgia

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The trapping of power were still there—the big blue and white presidential jet, the historic seal of office, the Secret Service, the special communications machines, the special attentions of a solicitous crew.

But the burdens of power were gone. The man with the bag for Armageddon was gone. It made all the difference. The plane felt lighter.

Flying home from Washington history, Lyndon B. Johnson and his family reflected a mixture of weary exaltation, relief, liberation and nostalgia. They were returning to Texas in the same plane in which the 36th president of the United States took his oath of office five years and two months ago in Dallas, the same plane on which he flew to Washington with the body and the widow of the 35th president.

If that somber fact gave them a special feeling of coming full circle, they did not express it. But they did talk of their last moments in the White House, the last special little things they did and their thoughts on leaving.

The former president said he felt "different within four seconds" after President Nixon took his oath. Running through his mind, he said, was his concern for the new chief executive and the problems he faced.

Also, Johnson said, he felt "great relief" that the problems were no longer his, that he could now roam his ranch without being followed by "the man with the bag." This referred to the ever-present companion of presidents who carries the secret code by which orders would be transmitted in event of nuclear attack.

He exhibited little trace of the President who last March 31 renounced another term in the White House in the hope that his renunciation could help unite a bitterly divided nation.

"It was our decision, our choice," he said. "Our time had come."

"Things now are a lot better than we had expected. Substantive peace talks have begun in Paris. The astronauts are back safely from the moon. Cambodia has turned our men loose. Now we just hope that good things will happen for Mr. Nixon."

Mrs. Johnson, holding her husband's hand, recalled that on her last morning in the White House she arose one hour earlier to wander alone through her favorite rooms, especially the yellow Oval Room, with its sweeping view of the Washington Monument, the Jefferson Memorial. Laughing, she also recalled that the last thing she packed was a book entitled "Everything To Live For."

Her smile faded as she recalled her last view of the White House, pulling away and seeing the windows "full of faces, the ushers, the butlers, all those people who were so nice to us. Some were in tears."

Her daughters, Luci Nugent and Lynda Bird Robb, alternated between serious memories and mutual needling. They slept together the last night in the White House in the Lincoln bedroom.

"We wanted to see if the ghost of Lincoln still existed," said Luci.

"We never found out," said Lynda Bird. "There was too much noise. Luci snores."

Clay Shaw Trial Starts In New Orleans

Garrison Again Cites Federal 'Interference'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Selection of the Clay Shaw trial jury starts today in a courtroom showdown on Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's claim that President John F. Kennedy was killed by a band of conspirators—not by a lone sniper.

Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. summoned 169 citizens for examination as prospective jurors with still others readily available.

Shaw, 55, a tall, chain-smoking, retired business executive is charged with conspiring to murder the president who was assassinated in Dallas November 22, 1963.

The Criminal district courtroom was under extraordinary guard. Deputies were under orders to search all spectators.

Opening of the trial was preceded by an unusual legal flip-flop by the prosecution.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock, named by Garrison to handle the case, asked Friday that the trial be delayed indefinitely. Then he withdrew the motion when it came before Judge Haggerty in a hearing Monday.

At the hearing, Alcock accused U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark of deliberately interfering by releasing a report on the Kennedy autopsy "on the eve of the picking of the jury for the Shaw trial."

Clark's announcement Thursday was that a panel of experts had examined the secret record and upheld the autopsy report that the bullets which killed the President were fired from above and behind.

Garrison says the autopsy material would back his contention that the President was hit by bullets fired from both front and rear.

"It was not the first time that Atty. Gen. Clark tried to interfere in this case with public statements," said Alcock in contending that Clark's statement could influence prospective jurors.

Youth Denies Maiming Girl

CINCINNATI (AP) — Defendant Charles Dunigan Monday denied he maimed a teenage white girl and attacked a policeman during racial rioting here last August.

Testifying before a Hamilton County Common Pleas Court jury, the 16-year-old Negro said he saw the commotion near an automobile a block away, heard an order to halt, and was shot when he turned around.

He is being tried on charges of maiming the girl and assaulting a police officer. The case is expected to be handed to the jury later this week.

Marsha Lynn Cox, 18, Middletown, was dragged from her car Aug. 16 and severely beaten. She suffered a broken nose and jaw, and eventually lost an eye.

Patrolman Robert Jahnnigan testified earlier that Dunigan came at him with a bottle when he shot and wounded him in the stomach. Dunigan was one of two Negroes standing near the Cox vehicle, according to the patrolmen.

Hopes Lyn Nugent To Have Opportunity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Johnson believes everybody in the country should want to be president—including his grandson Lyn Nugent.

"If he behaves himself and does the right thing and works hard," Johnson told a group of well wishers Monday, "then he'll have the opportunity to become president."

executive committee.

An active member of Masonic lodges, Davis belongs to the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Aladdin Temple, Pickaway County Shrine Club and Pickaway County Lodge 23.

OTHER organizations he has been active in include the Elks, of which he was exalted ruler, Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, Presbyterian Church and the Pickaway County Historical Society.

George Foresman was named as the third Senior Citizen. Amid the applause of the 150 people present at the banquet, he addressed the audience and thanked them for what he called "one of the greatest honors of my life."

Foresman, who was born in South Bloomfield in 1894, completed the eighth grade in school and then went to work to earn a living in 1897. By 1936 he was the president of First National Bank. He remained the bank's president until 1968 when he retired.

Work began for Foresman when he was 12-years-old. He was a part-time employee at Neuding Grocery and a delivery boy for the Union Herald.

He worked for Gottlieb-Hartmeyer General Store and then for the C & M Railroad. Later he went to work for Ohio Cereal Co., now Ralston Purina Company, until the building burned down in 1913.

In 1913 he married Harriet Millat and began farming. He is still an active farm manager.

FOR nine years, from 1924-33, he was postmaster at Circleville. Later he helped organize the First National Bank.

An active member of the local Presbyterian Church, he was elected to be a trustee for life.

He is also a member of the Farm Bureau, past president of Rotary Club, member of Elks and past chairman of Pickaway County Bankers Assn.

Women Voters Eye Legislative Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio League of Women Voters is expected to take a stand on a number of legislative subjects during the group's "All Ohio Human Resources Day" conference here today and Wednesday.

Issues to be discussed include finances, welfare, taxes, education and housing problems. The league's board of directors will formulate a position paper on the issues.

Bomb China Missile Sites, Sawyer Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charles Sawyer, former secretary of Commerce under President Truman, said Monday the United States should bomb missile sites in China and predicted that Russia would not retaliate.

The Cincinnati Democrat, here to address the Rotary Club, told newsmen that "not much" would result from the bombing of China missile sites and, "I don't think it would lead to any trouble with Russia."

Sawyer also said that America should use any military action necessary to end the Vietnam war. Although not advocating the use of nuclear weapons, he said:

"I don't see the sacredness of nuclear weapons. But as long as we have them we might as well use them as well as other weapons."

Sawyer said the United States is being played for a "sucker" in the area of foreign aid and recommended that the program be cut sharply.

"Many countries who receive aid do not appreciate it and the United States does not get the results it desires," he said.

Golden Lamb Inn Leased

Historic Golden Lamb Inn at Lebanon has been leased by two Cincinnati brothers, Michael and Lee Comisar, who own the Maissonette and Normandie Steak & Chop House in Cincinnati.

The Inn has been owned and operated for 40 years by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Jones. It is Ohio's oldest hotel, having been built in 1803 as a stopover on the stage coach route between Dayton and Cincinnati. It bears official recognition from the U.S. Department of the Interior as an authentic historic building, and is regarded as one of the authentic coaching inns of the United States.

The late Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gosnell, who operated Pickaway Arms in Circleville for many years, were former managers of the Golden Lamb Inn. It is located approximately 90 minutes driving time from Circleville.

CTA Meeting Scheduled

The Circleville Teacher's Association will hold its January meeting 3:45 p.m. Wednesday in the High Street Elementary School.

Jack Widner, field service consultant for the Ohio Education Association, and Jim Newlin, executive secretary of higher education, will present new programs of the OEA, including the expanded Circle Services, which makes various products available to members of OEA at discount prices.

Reports will be given on the recent OEA Convention in Columbus and also on the Cleveland Conference on Instruction.

Some committees, such as Salary, Negotiation, and Constitution Revision will report.

Brain Invasion From U.S. Shakes Canadian Citizens

OTTAWA (AP) — One of Canada's current problems is a brain drain in reverse: a brain invasion.

Many Canadians were shaken a bit by recent disclosure that half of the country's university professors come from outside Canada, mostly from the United States.

It also became known that U.S. textbooks were being used to teach Canadian students political science, history, literature and social sciences.

One result has been a small furor in academic circles, including suggestions that Canadian students are being indoctrinated to look at problems from the U.S. point of view and that something must be done about it.

At Carleton University in Ottawa, two faculty members presented a resolution calling for maintenance of a "two-thirds majority of Canadian citizens" on the teaching staff. Their proposal was overwhelmingly rejected.

Most educators acknowledge that the problem is serious, but most agree with an editorial in the Toronto Globe and Mail holding that the situation "is not the fault of the invaders."

The Globe and Mail touched off the controversy by disclosing that approximately 35 per cent of the university teaching force is from the United States. The figure is much higher in some of the new universities. For example, at Simon Fraser University, near Vancouver, 68 per cent of the faculty are Americans. At Waterloo University six of the seven departments in the humanities and social sciences are headed by Americans. The same university offers four courses in American literature and none in Canadian literature.

Sawyer also said that America should use any military action necessary to end the Vietnam war. Although not advocating the use of nuclear weapons, he said:

"I don't see the sacredness of nuclear weapons. But as long as we have them we might as well use them as well as other weapons."

High Court Limits Open Housing Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court limited Monday the power of cities to repeal open-housing laws.

In an 8-1 decision the court found Akron, Ohio, had put an unconstitutional "special burden" on its Negro residents by requiring bans on housing discrimination to have the approval of the majority of the voters in the city.

Huskies Beat Oregon Still Lead UCLA '5'

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

This may come as a surprise to those who have conceded UCLA its third straight National Collegiate basketball championship, but the Bruins, No. 1 in the nation, are only No. 2 in the Pacific Eight Conference.

Right now, it's simply a matter of who's played more games and no one seriously expects the standings to look the same come March. But the University of Washington, 9-4 over-all to UCLA's 12-0, held onto the league lead Monday night by defeating Oregon 60-54.

That gave the Huskies a 4-0 record in conference play to UCLA's 2-0, but they play each other Feb. 7 and 17 and Washington's still being on top is about as improbable as Lew Alcindor being cast as one of the Seven Dwarfs.

All five starters were in double figures for the Huskies, led by Pat Woolcock's 13 points. George Irvine had 12, Jay Bond and Rafael Stone 11 apiece and Dave Willenborg 10. Oregon's Stan Love took game honors with 17.

The Ducks led 17-15 midway through the first half, but Washington ran off eight straight points to take the lead for good. The Huskies led at halftime 32-25.

None of The Associated Press' Top Ten teams played Monday. The highest ranking teams to see action were 12th-rated Ohio State and No. 20 Dayton and the results didn't say much for the home court advantage.

Ohio State traveled to Atlanta and beat Georgia Tech 73-66 while Dayton stayed at home and succumbed to Western Kentucky 70-65.

Denny Meadows sank two late free throws and then nailed down Ohio State's victory with a key steal that boosted the Buckeyes' record to 10-2.

Georgia Tech bolted to an eight-point lead in the opening minutes but Meadows and Dave Sorenson sparked an 11-point run that put the Buckeyes back on top.

The teams traded baskets until the final minutes when Meadows' free throws gave the Buckeyes a 69-66 lead. Meadows then swiped the ball and Jim Clemons' basket boosted the margin to five points. Sorenson led the winners with 16 points and Meadows had 13.

Dayton led Western Kentucky 57-52 with 7:45 to play. But 6-foot-10 Dan Obrovac fouled out and the roof fell in as the Hilltoppers scored 16 straight points, 10 by sophomore Jim Rose.

Seven-foot Jim McDaniels paced Western Kentucky with 25 points while Dan Sadler had 20 for the F'ers. The loss was Dayton's third in 15 games and the first in nine home games in its season.

Elsewhere, Oklahoma City used deadly shooting and strong rebounding to hammer Southern Methodist 96-74. Rich Travis led the scoring with 29 points while Willie Watson pulled down 24 rebounds.

Army, the nation's leading defensive team with a 56.5 average, rolled over Fairleigh Dickinson 78-43. Bobby Washington's 25 points helped Eastern Kentucky turn back Ohio Valley Conference rival Tennessee Tech 87-71.

John Rauch Takes Over In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — John Rauch, a hot coach from a warm climate, says his goal is to make a world championship squad out of the Buffalo Bills, last season's doormat of professional football.

Rauch, the 41-year-old coach who took the Oakland Raiders to an American Football League championship and two Western Division titles in his three years at Oakland, officially joined the Bills Monday.

He signed a four-year contract. The salary terms were not disclosed.

The new Bills' mentor can conceivably count on the services of Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson. The Bills got the first pick in the combined pro draft Jan. 28 by virtue of their 1-12-1 record, worst in professional football last season.

Rauch put off making changes in his coaching staff, saying he will give the matter further study.

Rauch succeeds interim Coach Harvey Johnson, who replaced Joe Collier early last season.

Rauch said his major task would be revitalizing the Bills' offense. He indicated, however, he was thinking about a smaller shakeup in the team's defensive lineup.

Bachelor Enters

BOSTON (AP) — Jack Bachelor, a University of Florida grad student who missed the 5,000-meter Olympic final because of illness suffered in Mexico City, was entered today for the two-mile run in the 80th Boston A.A. Indoor Track Games at the Garden.

Davidson turned back Wake Forest and Virginia Military in lifting its record to 12-1 and Kentucky downed Georgia and Tennessee for an 11-2 mark. St. John's is also 11-2. The Redmen beat Virginia and West Virginia, unbeaten in 15 games, defeated Texas at El Paso while Illinois, 11-1, was not scheduled.

Purdue, Columbia and Dayton are the new teams in the Second Ten, holding down 18th through 20th place in that order. Northwestern, No. 17 a week ago, Baylor, No. 18, and Cincinnati, No. 19, dropped out of the rankings.

Northwestern was beaten both by Indiana and Michigan State, Cincinnati was beaten by Drake and Baylor was idle.

The Top 20, with first-place

20. Dayton	12-2 23

Mexico State and Illinois. LaSalle, 12-1 after last week's 88-81 triumph over Western Kentucky, advanced from 11th place to ninth and Duquesne, 11-1 including last week's 79-55 conquest of St. Francis, Pa., climbed from 12th to 10th.

Villanova, victimized by Penn's stalling tactics in losing to the Quakers 32-30, slipped from ninth to 11th and Kansas, which lost to Iowa State in double overtime, fell from 10th to 13th.

North Carolina drew 22 votes for second place and accumulated 512 points in the voting. The Tar Heels, 13-1, downed Georgia Tech and Wake Forest in last week's action. Santa Clara is 16-0 after whipping the University of California at Santa Barbara and San Jose.

Davidson turned back Wake Forest and Virginia Military in lifting its record to 12-1 and Kentucky downed Georgia and Tennessee for an 11-2 mark. St. John's is also 11-2. Zane Trace Pioneers Ranked No. 3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Streaking Columbus East held a firm grasp on the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press high school basketball poll today.

The Tigers of Coach Bob Hart, who rode a perfect 24-0 record to the Class AA championship last March, whipped Massillon 87-63 over the weekend for their 11th straight success this year.

The tall, sharp-shooting Tigers, with 56 triumphs in their last 57 starts, collected 188 points from the sports writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll.

Zane Trace moved into the third spot in the Class A Ohio High School basketball poll this week. The Pioneers were ranked tenth in the first poll, and were sixth last week.

Westfall received 11 points in the balloting, in spite of a weekend loss to the highly regarded Pioneers.

Toledo Libbey, 10-0, moved into second place on 135 points while Zanesville, 12-0, slipped to third with 125 points.

Once-beaten Canton McKinley 10-1, held fourth followed by Lima Bath, 12-0; Marion Harding, 10-2; Columbus Linden, 9-2; and Canton Lehman, 11-1.

Marlington and Columbus South swapped places from their standings last week while Harding jumped two notches to eighth place.

Top-ranked East faces its stiffest challenge of the season Friday when the Tigers engage city rival South on the Bulldogs' home floor. South ripped Columbus Whetstone 73-47 Friday and Columbus DeSales 72-51 Saturday to remain unbeaten.

None of the Class AA schools in the AP charmed circle were beaten over the weekend.

All-winning Granville, 14-0, clung to first place in the Class A ratings boosting its 11 point lead of a week ago to 32 over runner-up Strasburg, 11-0.

Newark Catholic, second last week, slipped to fourth on an 11-1 record after losing its first of the season, a tough 62-61 decision to New Albany. Newark's top scorer, Gary Sabo, was on the sidelines with the flu.

Zane Trace of Ross County, 14-0, moved from sixth place to third. Garaway, which hung an 86-57 defeat on previously unbeaten Bridgeport, held fifth place. Garaway is 9-1.

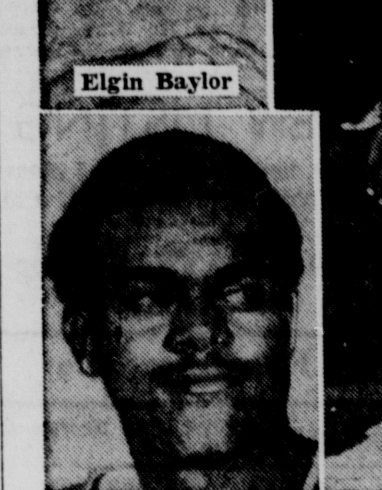

Rounding out the top ten are West Muskingum, 12-0; Mansfield St. Peter, the defending champ, 9-4; Bridgeport, 10-1;

Bloomville, 13-1, and newcomer Collins Western Reserve, 11-0, which replaced Sebring.

Sebring, fourth last week, tumbled out of the elite list after losing to East Palestine Friday, 53-52.

Huskies Beat Oregon Still Lead UCLA '5'

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

This may come as a surprise to those who have conceded UCLA its third straight National Collegiate basketball championship, but the Bruins, No. 1 in the nation, are only No. 2 in the Pacific Eight Conference.

Right now, it's simply a matter of who's played more games and no one seriously expects the standings to look the same come March. But the University of Washington, 9-4 over-all to UCLA's 12-0, held onto the league lead Monday night by defeating Oregon 60-54.

That gave the Huskies a 4-0 record in conference play to UCLA's 2-0, but they play each other Feb. 7 and 17 and Washington's still being on top is about as improbable as Lew Alcindor being cast as one of the Seven Dwarfs.

All five starters were in double figures for the Huskies, led by Pat Woolcock's 13 points. George Irvine had 12, Jay Bond and Rafael Stone 11 apiece and Dave Willenborg 10. Oregon's Stan Love took game honors with 17.

The Ducks led 17-15 midway through the first half, but Washington ran off eight straight points to take the lead for good. The Huskies led at halftime 32-25.

None of The Associated Press' Top Ten teams played Monday. The highest ranking teams to see action were 12th-rated Ohio State and No. 20 Dayton and the results didn't say much for the home court advantage.

Ohio State traveled to Atlanta and beat Georgia Tech 73-66 while Dayton stayed at home and succumbed to Western Kentucky 70-65.

Denny Meadors sank two late free throws and then nailed down Ohio State's victory with a key steal that boosted the Buckeyes' record to 10-2.

Georgia Tech bolted to an eight-point lead in the opening minutes but Meadors and Dave Sorenson sparked an 11-point run that put the Buckeyes back on top.

The teams traded baskets until the final minutes when Meadors' free throws gave the Buckeyes a 69-66 lead. Meadors then swiped the ball and Jim Clemons' basket boosted the lead to five points. Sorenson led the winners with 16 points and Meadors had 13.

Dayton led Western Kentucky 57-52 with 7:45 to play. But 6-foot-10 Dan Obrovac fouled out and the roof fell in as the Hilltoppers scored 16 straight points, 10 by sophomore Jim Rose.

Seven-foot Jim McDaniels paced Western Kentucky with 25 points while Dan Sadlier had 20 for the Flyers. The loss was Dayton's third in 15 games and the first in nine home games.

Elsewhere, Oklahoma City used deadly shooting and strong rebounding to hammer Southern Methodist 96-74. Rich Travis led the scoring with 29 points while Willie Watson pulled down 24 rebounds.

Army, the nation's leading defensive team with a 56.5 average, rolled over Fairleigh Dickinson 78-43. Bobby Washington's 25 points helped Eastern Kentucky turn back Ohio Valley Conference rival Tennessee Tech 87-71.

John Rauch Takes Over In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — John Rauch, a hot coach from a warm climate, says his goal is to make a world championship squad out of the Buffalo Bills, last season's doormat of professional football.

Rauch, the 41-year-old coach who took the Oakland Raiders to an American Football League championship and two Western Division titles in his three years at Oakland, officially joined the Bills Monday.

He signed a four-year contract. The salary terms were not disclosed.

The new Bills' mentor can conceivably count on the services of Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson. The Bills got the first pick in the combined pro draft Jan. 28 by virtue of their 1-12 record, worst in professional football last season.

Rauch put off making changes in his coaching staff, saying he will give the matter further study.

Rauch succeeds interim Coach Harvey Johnson, who replaced Joe Collier early last season.

Rauch said his major task would be revitalizing the Bills' offense. He indicated, however, he was thinking about a smaller sh keep in the team's defensive line-up.

Bachelor Enters

BOSTON (AP) — Jack Bachelor, a University of Florida grad student who missed the 5,000-meter Olympic final because of illness suffered in Mexico City, was entered today for the two-mile run in the 80th Boston A.A. Indoor Track Games at the Garden.

Davidson turned back Wake Forest and Virginia Military in lifting its record to 12-1 and Kentucky downed Georgia and Tennessee for an 11-2 mark. St. John's is also 11-2. The Redmen beat Virginia and West Virginia last week. New Mexico State, unbeaten in 15 games, defeated Texas at El Paso while Illinois, 11-1, was not scheduled.

Purdue, Columbia and Dayton are the new teams in the Second Ten, holding down 18th through 20th place in that order. Northwestern, No. 17 a week ago, Baylor, No. 18, and Cincinnati, No. 19, dropped out of the rankings.

Northwestern was beaten both by Indiana and Michigan State, Cincinnati was beaten by Drake and Baylor was idle.

Zane Trace Pioneers Ranked No. 3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Streaking Columbus East held a firm grasp on the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press high school basketball poll today.

The Tigers of Coach Bob Hart, who rode a perfect 24-0 record to the Class AA championship last March, whipped Massillon 87-63 over the weekend for their 11th straight success this year.

The tall, sharp-shooting Tigers, with 56 triumphs in their last 57 starts, collected 188 points from the sports writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll.

Zane Trace moved into the third spot in the Class A Ohio High School basketball poll this week. The Pioneers were ranked tenth in the first poll, and were sixth last week.

Westfall received 11 points in the balloting, in spite of a weekend loss to the highly regarded Pioneers.

Toledo Libbey, 10-0, moved into second place on 135 points while Zanesville, 12-0, slipped to third with 125 points.

Once-beaten Canton McKinley 10-1, held fourth followed by Lima Bath, 12-0; Marion Harding, 10-0; Columbus South, 10-0; Marion Harding, 10-2; Columbus Linden, 9-2; and Canton Lehman, 11-1.

Marlington and Columbus South swapped places from their standings last week while Harding jumped two notches to eighth place.

Top-ranked East faces its stiffest challenge of the season Friday when the Tigers engage city rival South on the Bulldogs' home floor. South ripped Columbus Whetstone 73-47 Friday and Columbus DeSales 72-51 Saturday to remain unbeaten.

None of the Class AA schools in the AP charmed circle were beaten over the weekend.

All-winning Granville, 14-0, clung to first place in the Class A ratings boosting its 11 point lead of a week ago to 32 over runner-up Strasburg, 11-0.

Newark Catholic, second last week, slipped to fourth on an 11-1 record after losing its first of the season, a tough 62-61 decision to New Albany. Newark's top scorer, Gary Sabo, was on the sidelines with the flu.

Zane Trace of Ross County, 14-0, moved from sixth place to third. Garaway, which hung an 86-37 defeat on previously unbeaten Bridgeport, held fifth place. Garaway is 9-1.

Rounding out the top ten are West Muskingum, 12-0; Mansfield St. Peter, the defending champ, 9-4; Bridgeport, 10-1; Bloomville, 13-1, and newcomer Collins Western Reserve, 11-0, which replaced Sebring.

Sebring, fourth last week, tumbled out of the elite list after losing to East Palestine Friday, 53-52.

Flyers Lose, Cincy Wins In Ohio Basketball Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Our offense kicked us in the teeth."

That's how Dayton Coach Don Donohoe explained the Flyers' first home basketball loss of the season, 70-65 at the hands of Western Kentucky Monday night.

Dayton enjoyed a comfortable lead through most of the game. Then with 7:45 left to play center Dan Obrovac fouled out.

Western Kentucky Coach John Oldham said that was the turning point of the game. "When Obrovac fouled out Dayton had to go to a press," he said. "We beat them easily then and were able to score 16 straight points, something unheard of on the road."

During the 16-0 scoring binge, Western Kentucky moved from a 57-52 deficit to a 68-57 lead. Sophomore guard Jim Rose scored 10 of those points on 12-foot jump shots to the left of the basket.

"He's steady but he drives me crazy," said Oldham of Rose's shooting. "He took a couple shots that wasn't good basketball, but they went in so it must be all right."

A zone defense contained Dayton's Ken May, who failed to score in the second half after hitting for 18 points in the first period.

Seven-foot center Jim McDaniels led Western Kentucky with 25 points, while Rose finished with 16. Dan Sadlier led Dayton with 20 points.

In other Ohio college basketball action, Ohio State won a tough road encounter with Georgia Tech 73-66. Oberlin edged Wayne State 67-65, and Cleveland State topped Buffalo State 89-76.

Georgia Tech bolted to an eight-point lead over OSU in the opening minutes of the game, but Denny Meadors and Dave Sorenson sparked a rally in which the Buckeyes scored 11 straight points to go back in front.

The teams then traded baskets until the final minutes of the game when Meadors flipped in two free throws and then stole the ball to set up a basket by Jim Clemons and give the Bucks a three-point lead.

Sorenson scored 16 points for OSU and Meadors added 13. Bob Seemer led the Yellow Jackets with 19.

Sam Thomas had a perfect second period in leading Cleveland State to an easy win over Buffalo State. Thomas, who finished with a game-high 23 points, hit 6 of 6 field goal attempts and 3 of 3 foul shots in the final period. Jerry Pavis scored 20 points for CSU, while Buffalo's Bill Kosowski had 18 and Len Piorkowski 17.

CHICAGO (AP) — As if UCLA and Lew Alcindor didn't have enough going for them in basketball ability these days but their frustrated foes find they also have to battle the psyche and the myth.

"No doubt about it," said Notre Dame Coach Johnny Dee Tuesday in a conversational warmup for a pair of weekend doubleheaders involving the top-ranked and undefeated Bruins in Chicago Stadium.

"They psyche you long before a game starts and although Alcindor is real enough, his growing myth is something you have to battle," said Dee, who stood somewhat alone in his feelings that UCLA can be defeated.

Dee's Fighting Irish will be spared the wrath of the Uclans this weekend since Notre Dame Tuesday in a conversational warmup for a pair of weekend doubleheaders involving the top-ranked and undefeated Bruins in Chicago Stadium.

Northwestern gets a crack at UCLA on Friday night's program which also finds Loyola matched against Marquette.

Dee felt "there are four or five teams in the country who could beat UCLA if they caught them on the right night. You have to play super basketball while they are having an off night. And you not only have to make Alcindor play 40 minutes but you must force him to race up and down the full length of the court on every play."

Hockey Award Set

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull, the Chicago Black Hawks' scoring star; Hall of Fame defenseman Eddie Shore and Western Hockey League President Al Leader were nominated Monday for the 1969 Lester Patrick Trophy, awarded annually for outstanding service to hockey in the United States.

Outfielder Keith Lampard, who hit .266 for Oklahoma City last season, was born in Warrington, England.

Logan Elm 9th Graders Win Third Game

The Logan Elm freshman team defeated Zane Trace, 44-42, Monday for the third consecutive win for the little Braves.

The LE fresh lost five games before the Christmas Holiday school break, but have won every start since the first of the year.

Bob Brown was the game's leading scorer, sinking six shots from the field and adding one point at the charity stripe.

Jeff Young scored 10 points for the Braves and pulled in 11 of his team's 27 rebounds. Wertz Teets also scored 10 points for the winners.

CHAFFIN was Zane Trace's leading scorer with 12 markers. The Braves led 12-7 at the end of the first period, 21-29 after two quarters, and 28-26 after three.

Zane Trace took a two point lead briefly in the third period, but Logan Elm led by as many as eight points shortly before the game ended.

Tonight the Logan Elm freshmen travel to Southeastern for a game.

Saltcreek Tops Aces

The Saltcreek Twp. junior high basketball team upped its record to 11-1 for the season Monday, defeating Amanda Clearcreek Junior High, 52-38.

The game was deadlocked, 49-49, at halftime, but the Warriors had a strong second half to gain the win.

Tim Justice scored 20 points in the game while Jim Bigham had 12 and Jack Randle 11 for the winners.

The next action for the Saltcreek Junior High is 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Pickaway County Tournament when they face Walnut at Walnut School.

Outfielder Keith Lampard, who hit .266 for Oklahoma City last season, was born in Warrington, England.

Fate Of Oakland's Seals Under Study

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League's board of governors spent the hours before tonight's 22nd annual All-Star Game contemplating the future of the Oakland Seals.

The West Division Seals have flourished on the ice but not at the gate this season and apparently will be playing elsewhere next season. The question the governors may decide today is just where that somewhere will be.

A group of Buffalo businessmen headed by Seymour Knox III has conditionally purchased the Seals. The condition is that the governors approve transfer of the franchise from Oakland to Buffalo.

UCLA; Tar Heels Top Cage Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LaSalle of Philadelphia and Duquesne of Pittsburgh replaced Villanova and Kansas on the list of Top Ten teams in The Associated Press' major-college basketball poll today while UCLA maintained its stranglehold on first place.

The unbeaten Bruins, whose 100-64 victory over Houston last Saturday night was their 12th this season, collected all 30 votes for the top spot in the balloting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

There were no changes either in the next seven positions as North Carolina held second place, followed in order by Santa Clara, Davidson, Kentucky, St. John's of New York, New Mexico State and Illinois.

LaSalle, 12-1 after last week's 88-81 triumph over Western Kentucky, advanced from 11th place to ninth and Duquesne, 11-1 including last week's 79-55 conquest of St. Francis, Pa., climbed from 12th to 10th.

Villanova, victimized by Penn's stalling tactics in losing to the Quakers 32-30, slipped from ninth to 11th and Kansas, which lost to Iowa State in double overtime, fell from 10th to 13th.

North Carolina drew 22 votes for second place and accumulated 512 points in the voting. The Tar Heels, 13-1, downed Georgia Tech and Wake Forest in last week's action. Santa Clara is 16-0 after whipping the University of California at Santa Barbara and San Jose.

Davidson turned back Wake Forest and Virginia Military in lifting its record to 12-1 and Kentucky downed Georgia and Tennessee for an 11-2 mark. St. John's is also 11-2. The Redmen beat Virginia and West Virginia last week. New Mexico State, unbeaten in 15 games, defeated Texas at El Paso while Illinois, 11-1, was not scheduled.

Purdue, Columbia and Dayton are the new teams in the Second Ten, holding down 18th through 20th place in that order. Northwestern, No. 17 a week ago, Baylor, No. 18, and Cincinnati, No. 19, dropped out of the rankings.

Washday Sun-Bandit foiled again!

A Fearless, Flameless Electric Dryer is always on the alert! He confronts clouds and showers with automatic electric drying... sun-like in its freshness, gentle and clean. His latest weapon in the fight against washday sun-banditry is durable press drying. Clothes made of permanent press fabrics come through ready to wear right from the dryer.

More "sunny" facts: an electric dryer costs less to buy than a gas dryer... and the money you save will more than pay for normal installation. Like to chase washday sun-bandits away permanently? Visit your electric appliance dealer and choose a flameless automatic electric dryer for your laundry.

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The major television networks, by pool coverage, by individual enterprise and by meticulous planning, gave Americans everywhere a splendid front row seat for the inauguration of their 37th president.

They had cameras everywhere that cameras were permitted, and from the moment President-elect Nixon emerged from his hotel quarters Monday morning until he walked into the White House as President in the late afternoon, the television screens of the nation recorded his progress.

The major events—the administration of the oath of office, the inaugural speech and the long parade—were handed in smooth fashion. The extra special dimension of the day was provided by the closeups, and an occasional warm, human moment.

It was, of course, a great day for the incoming president and his family. But the omnipresence of the cameras made the role of the outgoing president difficult, even awkward.

Lyndon B. Johnson handled it well, but there were moments when every viewer must have identified with him and sympathized deeply. This viewer will remember particularly the moment when, seated in the limousine, he took a very long, thoughtful look at the White House for the last time as President.

Then came the moment when he and his smiling successor arrived for the inauguration ceremonies. Johnson and his vice president stood, almost like spectators, as reporters and broadcasters clustered around Nixon and Agnew. There was too, the departure of the Johnson family for Texas. The ex-president, obviously moved, shook hands warmly with a crowd of well-wishers before boarding the presidential plane. The networks cut back and forth between the new President as he watched the parade and the farewell drama going on at Andrews Air Force base.

Of special interest to television viewers, too, were evidences of the tight security precautions surrounding the presidential party. Even before the network announcers described an antiwar demonstration on the motorcade route to the capitol ceremonies, we knew something was going on. The bodies of the Secret Service men around the limousine tensed and they moved in protectively around the car carrying the President and the President-elect. It was, somehow, reassuring.

The inaugural balls, covered late in the evening by CBS and NBC, were pretty much of a mess. There were so many people crowded so closely together that it was impossible even to see what many of the women were wearing. Mrs. Nixon looked very pretty but as far as her gown was concerned, all one could see were some white and some glitter. The President made a warm, funny little speech to the crowd.

It was a long day—for those who participated in the ceremonies. And the principals held up remarkably well. And it was a long day for those who watched. But the reward was drama, emotion and plenty of color. And around 60 million of us—that was the estimate of the number of people who saw all or part of the day's proceedings—had a better view of a particularly American celebration from their living rooms than those who stood on the lines of march or even sat in the stands.

It seemed obvious that the rather skimpy crowds in Washington were the result of people's decision to watch the big show from the TV vantage point.

Accused Slayer Found Insane

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Jimmy Wayne Howard, 20, of Kettering, accused of slaying a 12-year-old Kettering girl, has been declared insane by doctors at Lima State Hospital.

But Montgomery County Prosecutor Lee Faulke, who reported the doctors' findings, said he might ask a three-man team of Dayton psychiatrists to conduct further examinations of Howard.

Howard is charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Regina Ann Duchowski, whose body was found last month in a secluded area of western Greene County. Police said she was strangled.

The Tamarack tree, also known as the Larch, and a member of the coniferous pine family, unlike the pine, sheds its foliage each fall.

Pat Nixon Assumes One Of Toughest Jobs--First Lady

By JOY MILLER
AP Woman's Editor

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Pat Nixon, the American Dream will be fulfilled when she moves into the White House. It is a Dream, she says, that all Americans can hang on to and make come true for themselves too.

But being First Lady will also mean taking on one of the toughest jobs—and unpaid, at that — afforded a woman in this country.

Essentially a private and modest woman, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will live in the public gaze for four years, with her every word and action a matter for discussion in households across America.

Her first duty, of course, will be making a home in the historic mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue for her husband and unmarried daughter, Tricia, 22.

More than most men, perhaps, a president needs the comfort and understanding of a devoted wife as he ponders decisions that will make history. Pat Nixon knows this. During the recent presidential campaign she said she thought her greatest contribution to her husband was this: "I don't nag him. The best I can do is cheer him up."

These days, though, the First Ladyship requires of a woman more than domestic tranquility.

She must be a hostess of charm and tact and imagination to make the innumerable reception parties and state dinners at the White House something Americans can take pride in.

And she must have a project, a "thing," — preferably several — that she will pursue indefatigably, for the good of the country.

Her social duties Mrs. Nixon feels she can take in stride.

"I've had so-called on-the-job training when Dick was vice president," she has said. During President Eisenhower's illness Dick took his place and I did the First Lady chore then. And whenever Mrs. Eisenhower wasn't feeling well she'd call on me."

As for First Lady projects, Mrs. Nixon gave a good deal of thought to the matter as she crisscrossed the nation on the campaign trail in 1968.

"I have some very good ideas!" she told inquiring reporters, and ticked off the ideas in general terms: quality education for all, massive on-the-job training programs, community self-help undertakings, and youth projects.

"The main idea is that I'd like to assist my husband in what he wants to do. There's so much to be done, I'm sure I'd keep busy."

When someone wondered aloud that maybe her husband might downgrade welfare projects, she spiritedly replied.

"Dick doesn't want to cut off anything, but to give people pride and dignity. Why not be owners of little businesses? Give people a chance to do it. Give tax incentives. Train people for jobs that exist. People have to have dignity and goals; they have to be motivated."

National polls and surveys, she says, have convinced her that there is a large percentage of the citizenry that would volunteer to help improve their communities. "I would like to give support to those and to help spread the program to others."

At 55, Pat Nixon possesses formidable energy and endurance. When duty is involved, she shrugs off ordinary human frailties. She can go all day on a cup of coffee or stand for hours on a sprained ankle to shake hands, confessing quite honestly that hardship and pain don't bother her. "Creature comforts don't matter," she says.

She is organized, efficient and unflappable. She knows what guests were served what and when from file cards she started keeping back in her husband's early Congressional days.

"I can't do a thing without trying to do it well," she has often said.

In the last few months she has moved serenely through the rigors of campaigning and the election; the marriage of her young daughter, Julie, 20, to David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Eisenhower; the re-settling of the family home in Key Biscayne, Fla., after five years in a New York City apartment.

and, finally, the historic move to the White House.

"I only cross bridges when I come to them," she says. "I live one day at a time. If I have a problem I keep it to myself."

It's possible that the brown-eyed Californian has had more contact with, and understanding of, the average American and grassroots citizen, than any other First Lady entering the White House. For 20 years Pat Nixon has been shaking hands and listening.

Her slim figure—5 feet 5½, 110 pounds, size 10—is admirably suited to the well-cut, understated designer clothes she wears now.

Mrs. Nixon's fashion taste has kept pace with her husband's rise in income and political fortune. Gone forever are the silk print jacket dresses and the fuzzy little lacy evening numbers that she used to rush in and buy off the rack when she needed something. Now she wears smart, younger-looking clothes in elegant fabrics and flattering colors, many of them by Ruth Matthews, a California-based designer.

On her strawberry blonde hair she used to wear flowers and veils and straw sailor, but now her short and lighter blonde coif is seldom covered.

Not long ago someone joked to her that if she kept on going bareheaded the millinery industry would be very unhappy. She looked almost stricken, and cried: "But I love hats! I would like to wear them again."

She believes in wearing the same good suit or coat over and over again in public. Pictures of her doing this very thing recently moved Norman Norell, dean of American designers, to comment approvingly: "She's putting fashion in its proper perspective. A First Lady should not be so enthralled with fashion that she has to wear something different every day."

Mrs. Nixon is a practical, sensible, thrifty woman, taking pride in being considered primarily a homemaker. She likes to cook and garden, and she has called herself "old maidish" about keeping a house spotless and everything in its place.

In the White House the new First Lady will have a large and experienced staff to cope with keeping it tidy. She'll handle the workers with her usual friendly efficiency, but, since she doesn't like people to wait on her ("it is easier to do something for myself," she says), she may have some inner struggle about resisting the urge to move a piece of furniture here or to whip out a hot iron for a quick touch-up on a dress.

Makes Eating With FALSE TEETH

Up to 35% Easier

Clinical tests prove you can now eat and chew better—make dentures average up to 35% more effective—if you sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH holds uppers and lowers more firmly so they feel more comfortable. FASTEETH is not acid—doesn't sour. No gummy, pasty taste. Helps check "denture odor". Dentures that fit are essential to health. So see your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

The White House itself Pat Nixon regards almost with awe. "It's historical and beautiful and belongs to the people. I wouldn't tamper with it," she says.

State Parks Raise Fees And Rates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Swimming fees are being instituted and rates for cabins and boat docks in state parks are being increased as a means of obtaining additional revenue to meet the cost of parks operation and maintenance.

Melvin J. Rebholz, chief of the Ohio Division of Parks and Recreation, has filed the rate increases with the secretary of state's office.

Rebholz said the department held a public hearing and studied a number of plans to obtain additional funds and decided that the higher charges were the most feasible means.

The swimming charges, to be collected at 30 facilities, are expected to produce $1 million to $1.5 million annually. The swim fee schedule:

Persons 16 years and over 50 cents, 6 to 15 years 25 cents and no charge for under 6 years. Cabin rents are going up $2 to $3 weekly and $10 to $15 weekly depending on type and location. Annual boat dock rate hikes range from $4 for tieup space to $12 for use of one side of a dock.
